New constable, D.A., election set Nov. 7

BY DENA BISNETTE

In an already-scheduled special election which will be conducted simultaneously with the District 46 State Senate election Nov. 7, Hancock County voters will choose a new East District constable.

Those running include George E. Burleson of Kiln; Brian Cuevas of Kiln; Leo Ladner, who was appointed by the Hancock County Board of Supervisors as an interim constable; and Ted Necaise of Dedeaux.

The winner will fill the unexpired term of Paul Ladner, who resigned in April for medical reasons.

Burleson, 50, is a Florida native who has lived in Hancock County since 1967. He is a certified graduate of the Jackson Police Department Academy and has worked as a full-time sheriff's deputy since 1980.

Cuevas, 21, serves as an auxiliary deputy for the Hancock County Sheriff's Department and is a graduate of Hancock County Central. He gained about three years' experience in a junior deputy program.

Ladner, 53, is a Hancock County native who grew up in Rotten Bayou. He is a graduate of the Mississippi Law Enforcement Academy in Long Beach and served four years as a deputy with the Harrison County Sheriff's Department before joining the Hancock County Sheriff's Department as a deputy sheriff in 1980.

Necaise, 44, has lived in Hancock County for about 30 years and is currently employed in the maintenance department at the Pearl River Community College-Hancock County Vocational Technical Center. Prior to that, he spent about a year working for Gulf Coast Security Services Inc.

An additional race was scheduled for Beat Four Election Commissioner, but interim appointee Jean Dorsey will be unopposed. She was appointed to succeed Eugene Dillmann, who died shortly after his re-

Tapper withdraws from senate race

BY DENA BISNETTE

Elmer Tapper of Diamondhead has withdrawn from the District 46 State Senate race.

Tapper stated Friday that his decision to withdraw was based on a problem with certification of his candidacy after questions arose regarding his current voter registration.

He moved to Diamondhead six years ago from Louisiana, but did not register to vote immediately.

However, Tapper stated that he has been registered here for four years and, based on a consultation with the state attorney general, he could have filed an injunction delaying the Nov. 7 special election in order to force his certification as a candidate.

"I could have forced certification but the term was so short I decided instead to just wait for next year," Tapper explained.

"I understand the attorney general. I was an assistant attorney general in Louisiana and I understand what they have to do; they have to go by the statutes they have."

Tapper plans to run for the District 46 post next year, when the winner of the election will serve the full senatorial term.

He said there is only about one year left in the term vacated by Gene Taylor after his election as Fifth District congressman.

EXTRADITED—Mari Lombardo, 21, and her mother, Fran, 40, are escorted out of the Bay St. Louis Police Department late Wednesday evening. The pair were returned to Bay St. Louis where they are charged with the shooting death of Frank Lombardo, Fran's husband and Mari's father, whose charred body was found in his Bay St. Louis home in 1985. At an arraignment hearing Thursday, Circuit Judge Jerry O. Terry bound the pair over without bond. (Echo staff photo by D.C. Harvill)

Waveland Payless Shoes struck by armed robbers

BY D.C. HARVILL

Waveland Police are investigating the armed robbery of a Payless Shoe Store in Choctaw Plaza.

At approximately 8 p.m., two men who had pretended to be shoppers robbed the store at gunpoint, according to Chief Donald Dorn.

When officers arrived at the store they learned that two black males approached the checkout counter to pay for an item. One of them then pulled a gun on the clerk while the cash register was open. The clerk also was forced to open the store's safe, Dorn said.

According to the chief, $359.75 was taken in the robbery.

The two employees in the store were then taken into a storage room at the rear of the store, where they remained until hearing the sound of a buzzer attached to the front door.

At that time, one of the victims ran to a restaurant next door and called police.

The phone in the shoe store had been ripped from the wall by the robbers, according to Dorn.

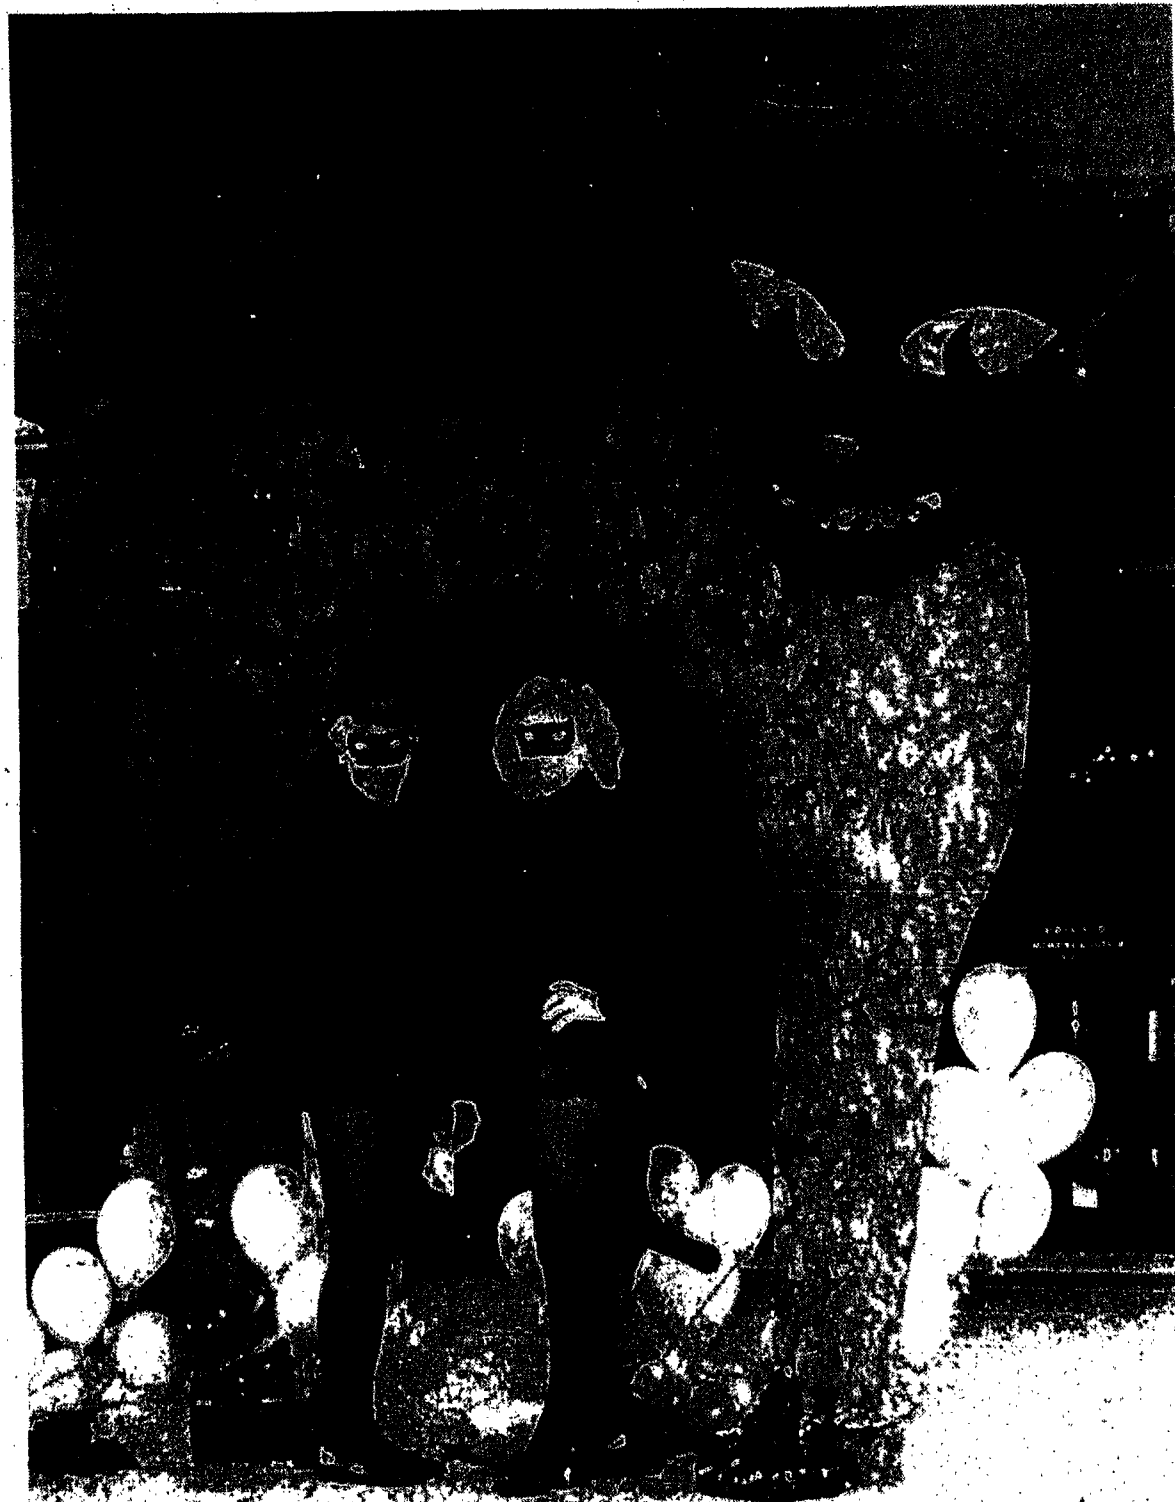

The subjects allegedly fled north on Highway 603 in a silver-grey vehicle with Louisiana plates.

Upon sending a report of the incident over the interstate crime computer, investigators learned that men fitting the two subject's description also had been robbing Payless Shoe Stores in Slidell and New Orleans, always at 8 p.m., according to Dorn.

According to composites made in Louisiana, the chief said, one of the subjects was described as being in his late 20s to early 30s, five-foot-five to five-foot-seven, 140 to 160 pounds, muscular, with a short, neat afro. When last seen, he carried a shiny revolver.

The second subject was six-foot-one to six-foot-four, muscular and weighed 200 to 210 pounds. He appeared to have a cut on the right side of his lip.

BIG CAT—This 13-foot-high cat greeted Diamondhead Boaters Association members to the organization's annual Halloween Party Friday night. Posing with the giant cat were from left, Sue Jerome and Neil Dennis. The cat was constructed by association member Berlon Dennis who was assisted by Frank Jerome. The party was held at the Diamondhead Country Club with 120 persons in attendance. (Echo staff photo by Ellis Cuevas)

Texas Flat block grant refused, but more money coming from highway act

BY DENA BISNETTE

Economic Development Block Grant money will not be available for reconstructing Texas Flat Road, but the Hancock County Board of Supervisors has found another way.

Board President Ronald Cuevas and other board members went to Jackson Wednesday to look into the problem of where to get the $1 million they had hoped the grant would cover in the $4.4 million project.

He said the county was unable to meet some of the federal requirements involved in the grant.

The county already had a commitment from the state for $3 million in funds provided through the Economic Development Highway Act.

Cuevas said the supervisors were able to get that amount increased to $3.65 million.

About $650,000 is still needed, and the board is in the process of trying to get that funding through the State Aid Road Program.

"We want to do this with no county money involved at all," Cuevas explained, adding that the application package is being put together for presentation at the Nov. 16 meeting of State Aid officials.

The board has been trying to get funding for the Texas Flat Road project for the past decade. The Economic Highway Development Act funds were approved in March for the 13.4 miles of roadwork.

A major factor in obtaining the funds involved NASA's Advanced Solid Rocket Motor project at Stennis Space Center and the economic development they are expected to bring to Hancock County.

Texas Flat Road serves as a route from Highway 603 and Stennis Airport to the space center, opening onto Highway 607 a few miles from one of the center's main gates.

The road is currently surfaced with gravel in most sections and has inadequate drainage. Two bridges need replacement.

A section of the road from Highway 603 to the entrance of McLeod Water Park was paved with county funding in 1986, but the pavement began to break up about a year later.

The board of supervisors' regular end-of-the month meeting is scheduled for 9 a.m. Tuesday in the upstairs boardroom of the Hancock County Courthouse.

Franczkiewicz joins senate race

Former Bay St. Louis Mayor Victor Franczkiewicz Jr. has announced his candidacy for the District 46 State Senate seat vacated by Gene Taylor.

"I believe that I offer the voters the ability, integrity, dedication and experience they expect in a senator," said Franczkiewicz, who is a graduate of St. Stanislaus and Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

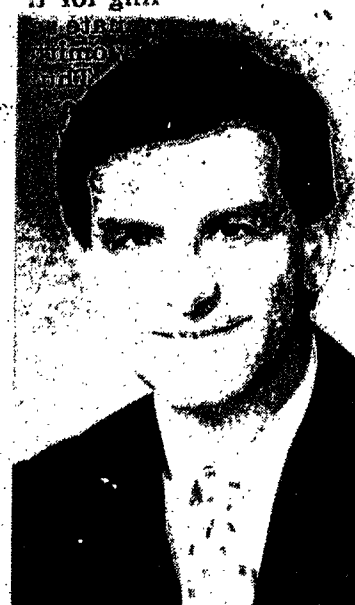

"Serving as mayor of Bay St. Louis for four years, I have dealt with problems which have to be addressed at the state level: budgets, capital improvements, environmental protection, law enforcement, educational financing and economic development," he added.

"My experience also includes work with the Gulf Regional Planning Commission, serving on the board of the Southern Mississippi Planning and Development District, a term on the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission and service as a state employee with the Mississippi Bureau of Marine Resources."

"Because of this background, I've worked with people in all three coast counties, and know the problems common to all of us."

"I look forward to the opportunity to represent the people of District 46. I pledge to them a voice in the legislature they can be proud of."

Franczkiewicz is currently serving as interim city manager for the City of Picayune.

election last November.

Also scheduled is a special election for district attorney, the winner of which will succeed Joseph Meadows, an interim appointee named after former district attorney Glenn Cannon resigned.

Candidates include former district attorney Cono Caranina, who served before Cannon was elected; Tom Sumrall and Robert Acevedo.

Hancock County Election Commission Secretary Betsy Nolan said run-offs are anticipated in the District 46 and constable races due to the number of candidates involved.

Absentee voting begins Monday. In addition, the Hancock County Circuit Clerk's office will be open from 8 a.m. until noon Nov. 4 for the special election and Nov. 11 and 18 for the run-off to assist anyone wishing to cast absentee ballots.

Disaster drill recalls old role conflict

During the past week, I "participated" in a disaster drill scenario at Port Bienville Industrial Park.

As a reporter, I was actually supposed to be only an observer, someone who for the purposes of the drill wasn't really there.

As I watched emergency personnel going through their procedures, I began to think of the drill as a drill for me, too. What if I were a reporter assigned to cover such a disaster?

After all, within the last month or so there have been reports of hurricanes, earthquakes, and closer to home, a chemical spill during a fatal accident on Interstate 10. Before moving to the coast, I had already handled reporting on tornados and floods.

I knew every Civil Defense director in six counties, dozens of paid and volunteer fire fighters, lots of policemen and deputies, a few EMTs and about 10 state troopers. I had learned from every one of them.

I like to think I've also learned from everybody I've met here.

Armed with a borrowed two-way radio with scanning capabilities, I could hear the emergency workers talking to each other and tried to choose what I would do accordingly.

The drill taught me this: I have learned something in eight years. At one time, I was a fool. I would have gone into the disaster area at the first opportunity I had because I valued my job more than my safety.

This time, I waited. I went into the "chemical spill" area with some firefighters instead of attaching myself to the first person with any authority who was willing to take me in.

In a real situation, only firefighters with breathing equipment would have gone in when I did, but at least I knew better. That's what counted to me.

There were three scenarios going on at once and I didn't make it to all three of them in time to catch some of the action on film. I saw one on videotape later and was provided with a written description of the other. It served to reaffirm my opinion that in a major disaster, one person is never enough.

What's going to happen, though, when I run into a real emergency and have to make a choice between my occupational role as an observer and my role as a person? There's an old role conflict that's been hanging around in my head since I abandoned teaching for this trade. The question that usually activates it is 'what if I get there first?'

I have scanners now. I live close to main roads. It's a remote possibility, but it could happen.

I found my answer one night at a traffic fatality, although it took me some time to realize it.

That's why I went to the CPR class. That's why I want to take First Responder classes at my first opportunity.

I've learned that it's very hard to be an observer sometimes. It's hard enough to do it at a political meeting when the subject being addressed is something I've made a personal study of, but I'm not allowed to have an opinion. Even if it would help to say something, I'm only supposed to ask questions.

I heard a name in a movie once--"JAFO". It was an acronym for "Just Another Frustrated Observer." "Frustrated" is a good word to describe it.

I get frustrated at times, even about simple things such as when someone asks me who I'll vote for in an election. Unless the person is a trusted friend who will definitely not repeat what I say, I can't tell anyone.

I have standing orders not to do it because I am a reporter, and someone might give too much weight to my opinion. I'm an observer in such a conversation, not a participant.

It was hard the time I went to an accident close to where I was working when I got the call, and arrived early enough that there wasn't much help with traffic control.

It was hard when I went to a school fire and knew that more help was needed than was there. I had finished my work, but then I was supposed to back off and watch. My instincts said I should do otherwise, but, as in many cases with modern society, I had been taught to ignore those instincts.

Or at least, That's what I was supposed to have learned.

Do you know what it's like to snap a few pictures, then stand there and feel like you should be doing something?

People tell me they think reporting must be hard work. Sometimes, it is.

JAFO, indeed.

Eight seek senate seat

EDITOR'S NOTE: Several candidates running for the District 46 state senate seat were inadvertently omitted from this story in Thursday's Echo so we are rerunning it in its entirety.)

BY D.C. HARVILL

The speculation ended at 5 p.m. Tuesday.

Eight people qualified to run in the Nov. 7 special election called to fill the District 46 Mississippi Senate seat left vacant by Gene Taylor.

The deadline for qualification was 5 p.m. Tuesday.

Taylor resigned from the position upon winning the Fifth District U.S. Congressional office in a run-off election last week.

High on the candidates' list of issues are educational reform, preventing NASA from testing Advanced Solid Rocket Motors (ASRM) at Stennis Space Center, bringing jobs to the Coast, and drug education and enforcement.

Jerry Medford, 58, Republican, of Diamondhead, is a retired federal drug agent and U.S. Customs officer.

Medford said he thinks he can be beneficial in educating kindergarten through college about drug problems.

He said he is certain the best way to solve the drug problem is to stop the demand by balancing education, rehabilitation and enforcement.

Terrall Randolph, 52, Democrat, of Diamondhead, is presently Hancock County superintendent of schools; "Education is in the forefront," he said.

He said his experience will be especially beneficial in meeting the educational and social issues in the legislature now.

James C. Thriffley III, 44 and a Democrat, said he would like to see legislation passed allowing everyone who contributes to the State Retirement Fund to belong to the same group health program.

He said he would like to address the issue that exists with car tags and with property taxes.

"Some people don't pay a penny in property taxes," he said.

Top priorities are environmental protection and encouragement of the fishing and agricultural industries.

Republican Gordon Boh, 29, administrative assistant to Bay St. Louis Mayor Edward Favre, said he wants to see the district grow in industry, education and quality of life.

Boh, a St. Stanislaus High

School graduate and college student, is opposed to gun control, abortion and all forms of gambling. He would like to see a constitutional reform and a thinning of government agencies in Mississippi.

Hilda Bourg, 52, Hancock County recreation director and a Democratic resident of Diamondhead, considers herself the all-around candidate.

Her experience in education, county government, and as chairman of Mississippi Coast Crimestoppers, vice president to the Mississippi Federation of Democratic Women and a member of the Mississippi Democratic Executive Committee qualify her for the job, she said.

Education, environment, fisheries and economic development are among her priorities.

Victor J. Frankiewicz Jr., a 35-year-old Democrat and former Bay St. Louis mayor said as mayor he has already had to deal with issues that need to be dealt with on a state level.

Among his concerns are budget, environmental protection, educational financing, law enforcement and economic development.

William M. Kulick, 29, of Ocean Springs, a Democrat, is a lawyer and state and local chairman of the Sierra Club.

The environment is at the top of his agenda.

He sees the senate seat as a good opportunity to "help the people of Hancock County fight against the solid rocket motor (ASRM) testing program," which he said he does not think will be good for established industries or the environment.

An eighth candidate for the election, Elmer Tapper of Diamondhead, withdrew from the race Thursday.

United efforts assist United Way campaigns

In February of 1989, there began a series of meetings between representatives of the Hancock, Harrison and South Pearl River counties' United Way organizations to discuss a national trend.

Members of this areawide steering committee from Hancock were Chuck Benvenuti, Dave Treutel Jr., Conrad Mauffray and Ellis Cuevas. Members from Harrison were Dr. John Kelly, Garry Ruff, Walter Williams and M.J. Landry Jr.; the representatives from South Pearl River were, John Pigott, Dr. C.J. Wallace and Russell Brown.

The areawide steering committee studied the possibility of the neighboring United Ways combining efforts to form the United Way of South Mississippi, as the trend is for many United Ways across the nation.

Over the months, there were many lengthy meetings between the members of this committee to weigh the advantages and disadvantages.

It was discovered all three United Ways shared many of the same problems and soon two subcommittees were formed to further refine the details of an areawide arrangement.

One of the subcommittees studied the administration, while the other looked at the campaign/communication aspects.

A 'Memorandum of Understanding' was finally reached and approved by the respective United Way officers and directors.

It called for the cooperation of the United Ways of the three counties and coordination of the 1989 joint campaign with the United Way of Harrison County providing professional staff support.

This is the first step in the process toward a full areawide arrangement.

The final step may be taken next year after the 1989's campaign is evaluated by the areawide steering committee. Their recommendations will have to be approved by the respective United Way's officers and directors.

It was suprising to note the common ground between the three United Ways.

Many of the agencies are the same, all receive funding from Combined Federal Campaigns (CFC) and Combined Agency Campaigns (CAC).

Banks, businesses, power companies and industries have residents from the three counties and distribute payroll deductions to the respective United Ways.

An important thing to remember—each county United Way will remain autonomous, and govern its own local agencies.

The officers and directors of each United Way will be from their respective county, as well as those who handle the fund distributions for the individual agencies. Members from each county will supervise distribution of funds.

The campaign for the United Way of Hancock County is now underway with a goal of $100,000 with Stephen Planchard as chairman.

It will take the coordinated efforts of many to make this campaign a success. Any help will be greatly appreciated.

For further information call 467-9501, 798-0644, 863-4884 or write to: United Way of Hancock County, P.O. Box 142, Bay St. Louis, MS 39520.

Children must be aware of the dangers of strangers

Dear Editor:

I'm writing to tell you that a program called "Do You Know The Muffin Man" recently came on TV.

The police officer in the program said children do not know what a child molester looks like.

I wondered if we could have a program set up for children to tell them about strangers.

They need to know these things to be safe in this world.

Pilet praises quality of reporter's photograph

A rare piece of excellent photography appeared on Page 1 of the Thursday, Oct. 26 edition of the Echo. The composition couldn't have been more perfect—in the background the U.S. Capitol Building, unexcelled in architectural beauty, the ornamental iron fence adding dignity, and the charm of the lighting fixture with Congressman Gene Taylor's profile as a focal point.

Your staff photographer, D. C. Harvill needs recognition for his work. Would not that picture be a fitting subject for a calendar or the front cover of the Official and Statistical Register?

Through this column I would like to compliment your photographer. Well done, Mr. Harvill!

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

This is one of those mornings when you could have slept another hour because of the time change.

In case you have forgotten, you should have set your clock back one hour before you retired last night.

I know there are folks out there waiting to see if I goofed once again on the time change.

I will never forget the fall backward for fall and spring forward for spring on the time change.

I wonder how many folks will arrive this morning at church an hour early.

I hope you enjoyed your extra hour of sleep last night because you will lose it in the Spring.

Tuesday is Halloween, a time many children of the area will be going door-to-door for trick-or-treating.

I hope parents will accompany their children while they are trick-or-treating. On many Halloweens, I have seen young children running around the streets without proper supervision.

Motorists should pay close attention if they are driving about town on Tuesday night. Many children will be masked and this impairs their vision, not to mention the fact they may not even be thinking about traffic.

Motorists should also realize there will be several area streets blocked to traffic as a safety measure for trick-or-treating youngsters.

Parents are urged to warn their children not to eat anything until they have had it properly checked, as there are still a few kooks running loose in this world.

We hope the trick-or-treaters of all ages will have a safe and happy Halloween.

It is now less than two months before Christmas, one wonders just where this year has gone.

It seems that summer was only yesterday.

This is the time of year for parents to begin, if they have not already, making some preliminary plans for Christmas.

We at The Sea Coast Echo have a special arrangement with Santa Claus and the United States Post Office in the publishing of some Letters to Santa.

One young lad did not want to be forgotten this Christmas, as I received his wish list several months ago.

I realize he was a bit early, but he apparently wanted to make sure Santa was aware of his wishes for Christmas.

EYES ON MISSISSIPPI

By Bill Minor

Redrawing of Legislative Districts to be hottest issue of 1990 Session

Political conflict over reapportionment of the 174 seats in the Mississippi Legislature is already brewing even though the 1990 population census data will not be available until more than a year from now.

It's already a foregone conclusion that the hottest issue of the 1991 session of the Legislature will be the redrawing of legislative districts to reflect the shifts in population shown by the new census figures.

Since the 1990 census data won't be available until the early spring of 1991, the Legislature will be hard-pressed to produce a redistricting bill and have it cleared by the U.S. Justice Department in time for the 1991 quadrennial elections.

Consequently, lawmakers have moved the time for holding the party primaries for state and local offices in 1991 from the traditional first Tuesday in August to the third Tuesday in September, with the runoff in mid-October.

The reason reapportionment is so emotional is that it means somebody is going to be voted out of a job, and everybody wants it to be the other guy.

A basic legal requirement is that each legislative district in the reapportionment plan must be as close to being equal in population as possible, deviating less than 1 per cent from the norm.

And for Mississippi, which is subject to the 1965 Voting Rights Act, it is imperative that legislative districts not dilute black voting strength, a delicate issue which will be watched closely by blacks and could always trigger a federal court case.

Delta counties figure to be the biggest losers of legislative seats because of the projected loss of more than 43,000 people in the 2nd Congressional district which largely comprises the Delta.

The biggest gainers of legislative seats are expected to be the Gulf Coast, the Jackson area, particularly suburban Madison and Rankin Counties, and also the Southaven area just south of Memphis.

Under existing legislative apportionment, there are 34 black majority House districts and 13 black majority Senate districts. It is certain that the number of black majority districts will not be reduced in the new apportionment. More likely the number will increase by a couple.

Significantly, 14 of the black majority districts in the House, mostly in the Delta, are now represented by white legislators. Eleven black-majority districts in the Senate are filled now by whites.

Blacks have long contended that they need a population majority of 60 to 65 percent in an election district in order to give them a voting age majority sufficient to assure the election of a black.

One of the key battles in the upcoming reapportionment struggle is expected to be waged by white legislators who represent black-majority districts against any move to increase the proportions of blacks in their districts.

That issue is already beginning to emerge in rumblings of discontent with Rep. Frances Savage of Brandon, chairman of the House Elections Committee, a post that automatically makes her vice-chairman of the Joint Legislative Apportionment Committee which will draft the redistricting plan.

One report is that a group of white Delta members in the House is pressing Speaker Tim Ford to remove Savage from her chairmanship because she is considered to be in sympathy with the need to increase the proportion of blacks in their districts.

Incumbency is one consideration that can be taken into account under the Voting Rights Act in the drafting of a reapportionment plan by a state Legislature. But if the federal court takes over the redrawing of district lines, incumbency is not a consideration.

"That is why it is so important we do the job ourselves and not give anybody a legitimate reason to sue us," Savage said.

As for the reported move to boot Savage from her committee slot, one Savage critic, Rep. Charlie Williams, of Senatobia, said, "I don't know of anybody who is trying to get her off the committee."

But Williams, who is not a member of Savage's committee, added: "I know a lot of people who were really upset with her during the last session."

Medford announces candidacy for District 46 Senate Seat

Jerry Medford, a retired federal drug agent, has announced his candidacy for the District 46 seat in the State Senate.

Medford said he has received a lot of encouragement to run for the office because there is a need for leadership in Mississippi's war on drugs. He stressed the need for education from kindergarten through college on the problems of drugs.

"I know from 25 years of experience in drug enforcement that we must stop the demand before we can have any success in controlling the drug problem."

"That's the key," he said. "I've worked in interdiction. We put tremendous dollars and effort into it, and our success rate was down as low as 5 percent. Law enforcement just cannot do it alone. It's impossible."

The answer, Medford said, is a balanced program in education, rehabilitation and law enforcement.

The number two issue in Mississippi is to educate a work force for the state, he said.

"I support education as strongly as I did when my children were in school."

"A good school system is an economic school system. It's been proven that more than 90 percent of the people who serve time in prison are high school dropouts. Without an education, it costs the state more in law enforcement and prison systems. This is Mississippi's big challenge, I think," he said.

A resident of Hancock County for the past 15 years, Medford holds a bachelor of science degree from the University of Houston.

He served in the Drug Enforcement Administration and U.S. Customs Service, his last position as regional director at the Drug Interdiction Program for the Central Gulf States.

He also is a past executive director of the Mississippi Coast Crime Commission.

He served on the Governor's Executive Board for coordinating law enforcement from 1979 to 1980, was state president of the National Association of Retired Federal Employees in 1986 and served on the State Legislative Committee for the National Association of Retired Persons in 1986.

He is a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion. He is also active in various other organizations.

Medford is married to Betty Medford and has one grown daughter.

In 1987, Medford, 58, of Diamondhead, lost by one vote to Roger Dale Ladner in the runoff for the District Three seat on the Hancock County Board of Supervisors.

Bourg seeks Senate seat

Hilda L. Bourg has announced her candidacy for Sate Senate District 46.

Bourg, 52, is director of Hancock County Recreation Department, responsible for obtaining grants and construction of new facilities, the most recent of which is the Hancock County Walking Track, located at the Hancock Medical Center.

A Diamondhead resident, Bourg is a graduate of Louisiana State University, holding bachelor's and master's degrees in education and recreation. She also did post-graduate studies at the University of Maryland.

She has 10 years teaching experience at elementary, high school and college levels.

In her 14 years in Hancock County, she has served on numerous community boards, including Hancock County Chamber of Commerce Education Task Force Committee, Mississippi Coast American Red Cross, Mississippi 2001 and Hancock County Mental Health-Mental Retardation Advisory Committee.

She also served as chairman of the Hancock County Democratic Executive Committee and was Diamondhead Community Association president.

She is a member of the State Executive Committee of the Mississippi Democratic Party, Fifth Congressional vice-president to the Federation of Democratic Women, chairperson of the Mississippi Coast Crimestoppers, advisory board of the Hancock RSVP, Hancock County Youth Task Force Board, auxiliary deputy for the Hancock County Sheriff's Department and is former United Way of Hancock County president and campaign chairman.

HILDA BOURG

Bourg was a delegate to the Democratic Convention in Atlanta in 1988.

She stated, "I am seeking the office of State Senate, District 46 with my prime objectives being the betterment of the education system and the development of a direct transportation plan linking Mississippi from north to the south."

These two elements, when combined, will serve as the key to economic prosperity in our state. The lottery to benefit education should be decided by the vote of the people of Mississippi.

"I will support legislation to aid the seafood industry which is so vital to the economy of our district."

"I am firmly committed to a clean environment and protection and enhancement of senior citizens' benefits."

"I will strive for continued development of fire protection districts throughout our state resulting in lower insurance rates for residents of rural communities.

"I will support a strong anti-drug program to fight the problem at its source—on the street. In this connection, I will also lend the cooperation of my office to law enforcement officials and agencies to improve the conditions of the penal system and institutions throughout our state."

The candidate and her husband, Jerry Bourg, are the parents of two children, Kevin, 16, and Denise, 21.

Dollar General Corporation celebrates 50th anniversary

Dollar General Corporation, creator of the "dollar-store" retailing concept, turns 50 years old on Oct. 28.

The company will kick off its month-long anniversary celebration with special discounts and bargains in its 1,300 stores. "We wouldn't be 50 years old today if it weren't for the loyalty of our customers," Cal Turner Jr., chairman and CEO, said. "That's why we want to give our customers something to celebrate on our birthday. It's our way of saying thank you."

Dollar General Stores are located at US-90 and Dunbar in the Bay St. Louis Mall and US-90 in Waveland in Our Shopping Center.

Inflation over the years has forced Dollar General from its founding concept of "Everything for $1." But the stores still price merchandise in even dollar amounts.

A $10,000 stake in 1939 began Dollar General as a wholesaler in Scottsville, Ky. That wholesale business soon grew into the first "dollar store" retailer, which is today a publicly traded corporation with 1,300 stores in 23 states. Sales in 1988 reached $613 million.

After going public in 1968, the chain consistently set sales and earnings records through 1984. Major growth and acquisitions softened earnings in 1985 and 1986, prompting aggressive steps to bring the company around to its current status as a classic turnaround story.

At the helm of the corporation is its chairman, a driven man whose father and grandfather pooled that $10,000 stake equally to found the company. Turner is determined to see Dollar General continue its recovery.

But Dollar General isn't Turner's only passion. He's also driven by a cause that he sees as a basic human right—the opportunity for every man and woman to learn to read and write.

Dollar General received a citation from President Reagan last fall for its work in encouraging and directing thousands of its customers to GED resources. Since it began distributing GED materials in its stores, Dollar General has helped more than 13,500 people get information about GED and Learn to Read programs. Turner explains his fervor for education this way:

"Some of our Dollar General customers know the crushing burdens of illiteracy and our 23-state market area has a disproportionate share of a tremendous adult illiterate population. That's why we've developed the GED/Learn to Read and other educational programs. Corporate America owes education more than lip service and token contributions; we must play an active role in helping educate our people. Our future depends on it."

Kern completes training program

Craig Foster of the investment firm Edward D. Jones & Co., has announced Janelle Kern's completion of the STAR Training Program.

The STAR Training Program, which stands for Service, Teamwork, Accuracy and Results, was created by Edward D. Jones & Co. especially for its branch office staff.

The program consists of four weeks of daily modules explaining the securities industry, Edward D. Jones & Co. and procedures branch secretaries are responsible for in helping investment representatives serve clients' investment needs.

"We at Edward D. Jones & Co. pride ourselves on the one-to-one service we offer," Foster said. "The program is just one more tool that helps us continue the personal service for which we've become known."

Kern added, "The STAR program has helped me learn about the various transactions involved in my job quickly and easily. With this background, I'll be better able to help Craig serve the people of Bay St. Louis."

Kern joined Edward D. Jones & Co. in August 1988. She is a native of Bay St. Louis.

Edward D. Jones & Co., a member of the New York Stock Exchange, has more than 1,000 offices in 36 states, with headquarters in St. Louis. The Bay St. Louis office was established in May 1987.

SHOPPING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire
Caire

With Hallowe'en coming up this Tuesday, it's time to dash over to our area supermarkets to stock up on the special savings on "treats" for the small tricksters!

I've just bought a variety of treats, and, mindful of the fact that many parents don't want the youngsters to accept some of the treats offered, I've chosen miniature boxes of raisins on special sale at Jitney Jungle, wrapped mints and such, along with small to medium size Red Delicious apples—a four-pound bag full of apples from Winn-Dixie.

And, Golden Delicious apples from Jitney Jungle, along with small sweet Florida oranges and mandarins from Jitney Jungle. And there are super specials in so many sweet treats at Delchamps and National—so take your pick!

And, let's not forget old Jack-O-Lantern himself—you've a wide choice at our markets, whatever size or shape you prefer. I'll not take a knife to my pumpkin too soon, not until Tuesday morning, for I've found out "the hard way" that, if the face is carved out too far ahead of Hallowe'en, Jack wears quite a hang dog, droopy face by the time the great night arrives!

Then I'll scoop out the insides, de-string the seeds of their gunky strings, and toast some pumpkin seeds. I'll cook up some pumpkin chips for munching—and if I'm ambitious enough, I might bake some pumpkin bread.

For a tasty accompaniment to a cup of clear soup, or at the cocktail hour or whenever, try:

PUMPKIN CHIPS

8 oz. fresh pumpkin, pared, seeded, sliced quite thin, as for potato chips

Oil for cooking
1/4 tsp. garlic powder
Dashes of black pepper, salt as desired
Splashes of hot pepper sauce, optional

After you've pared and seeded the pumpkin pieces, slice thin, making two cupfuls. Soak in ice water for an hour or so, then drain. Pat dry.

Fry in deep, hot oil (350 degrees) until browned, just two minutes or so. Drain on paper toweling. Combine seasonings, and sprinkle or sieve over the chips. I like to use a combination of cayenne and black pepper, for extra "zing." And, a dash of curry powder, just the merest dash, gives a variation in taste.

And, for a tasty snack, try:

ROASTY-TOASTY PUMPKIN SEEDS

Just wash the seeds in cold water using a colander, to get rid of the stringy fibers. Blot dry with paper towels, spread on a cookie sheet, in a single layer, and sprinkle lightly with pepper and salt. Drizzle melted butter or oil over, and roast in a 350-degree oven for a half hour or so, stirring a couple of times during the process. Let the seeds cool, and store in a tightly covered container.

I may make that pumpkin bread this week, and again, I may not, if the weather holds and the garden tempts me too much. At any rate, here's the recipe I use for

PUMPKIN BREAD

(It's a recipe Karen Boudreaux gave me several years ago.)

3 cups sugar
1 cup salad oil
2 cups thick, cooked pumpkin (or, if you've no Jack-O-Lantern left over) use a small can of pumpkin)

2/3 cup water
4 eggs
1/3 cup flour
2 tsp. baking soda
1 1/2 tsp. cinnamon
1 tsp. mace or nutmeg
1 cup raisins or pecans

Combine all ingredients, except the raisins or nuts, and mix well together. Fold in raisins or nuts. Grease and flour two pans, and bake the bread in them at 350 degrees for an hour. Let cool in the pans.

"Porky Pig" is star of the meat counters this week—with specials and more specials at area supermarkets. For instance, lean fresh whole Boston Butts at Winn-Dixie and National, fresh picnic pork shoulders at Jitney Jungle, assorted chops at Delchamps—and sliced quarter loins at National, whole loins at Winn-Dixie and economy cut lean loin chops and pork spareribs at Winn-Dixie. Quite a variety of cuts! I'm cooking up:

QUICK, QUICK PORK AND RICE SKILLET

1 lb. boneless pork, cut in 2-inch by quarter-inch strips
1/2 cup chopped onion
1 tsp. salt
1 1/4 cups water
1 cup converted rice (uncooked)
1 to 2 Tbsp. chili powder
1/2 cup diced green pepper
1 pkg. (10 oz.) frozen succotash, thawed

Diced tomato, optional
Brown pork and onion in your large skillet, and sprinkle with half the teaspoon of salt. Stir in the water, rice, chili powder and remaining salt, and bring to a boil.

Simmer, covered, for 15 minutes, then stir in the green pepper and succotash. Simmer, covered, for five minutes longer. Remove from heat and let stand, covered, until all the liquid is absorbed, say five minutes or so. Top with diced tomato if desired. (Five to six servings) —From Johanna Glinn's Thrifty Meals cookbook.

There was a time when I cooked only calf's liver, thinking beef liver not as tasty. But I've found that beef liver, properly cooked, is quite good. And with young, tender beef liver on special sale at National, Winn-Dixie and Jitney Jungle, I'm cooking up a few liver dishes of course, it's said of me that I like onions-and-liver instead of liver-and-onions! Why not try this recipe for:

QUICK BEEF LIVER

1 lb. beef liver

Seasoned flour
Butter or margarine
4 Tbsp. chopped onion
4 Tbsp. red wine vinegar
Hot cooked rice

Dip the liver into the seasoned flour (pepper, salt, seasonings of your choice) and heat just enough butter in the skillet to film the bottom of the pan, and cook the liver ever-so-quickly over high heat, two minutes per side—or a little less, if you prefer it rare.

Take the liver out of the skillet and set it aside. If you've burned the butter, wipe the skillet with a paper towel, if not, leave the residue, and proceed.

At any rate, add additional butter to film the bottom of the pan.

Add the chopped onions and cook over medium heat until they begin to brown, then add the vinegar, swirling it over medium heat as you reduce it down to one or two tablespoons (you're also tenderizing the liver). Add a tablespoon of butter to the hot vinegar mixture, and pour over the liver. Serve with the hot rice. (Four servings).

Note: Bonus Bags (6 lbs.) of long grain rice are specially priced at National.

Broccoli's your choice? Good, it's on special at Delchamps, so cook up:

GOLDENAISE BROCCOLI
1 bunch broccoli
3 egg yolks
1/2 cup mayonnaise
1 Tbsp. lemon juice
1/2 tsp onion salt
1/8 tsp. thyme

Remove large leaves and cut off tough ends of stalks. Cook in a bit of boiling salted water just until tender, crisp-tender, that is. Meanwhile, place egg yolks in strainer and lower into simmering water to cover, simmer several minutes, until firm.

Remove and sieve. Combine remaining ingredients in a small pan, and simmer only long enough to heat thoroughly. Pour over broccoli in serving dish, and top the sauce with the sieved yolks. (Six servings)

Get lucky, quitters; Smokeout turns 13

The American Cancer Society's Great American Smokeout turns 13 this year, which could bring good fortune to those smokers trying to quit.

As it does each year on Smokeout Day, the American Cancer Society will encourage all smokers to try their luck in remaining smoke-free for 24 hours—in the hope that they might quit for life.

Last year's Smokeout proved to be the magic charm for approximately 10.7 percent of the nation's smokers, or 5.4 million people, who gave up cigarettes the entire 24 hours. One to three days later, 3.4 million of those people still were not smoking.

Held each year on the third Thursday of November, this year on November 16, the Great American Smokeout is a nationwide celebration featuring rallies, races, athletic events, contests and more. In short the goal is to work a little magic to help smokers quit and stay quit.

This year the Great American Smokeout will become even more MAD, thanks to Jack Davis, a cartoonist for MAD Magazine. Davis' message to smokers to leave the pack behind will appear on a poster, postcard and tent car.

The Smokeout will also go where no smoker has gone before—outer space—thanks to Leonard Nimoy and Paramount Pictures. Star Trek's Mr. Spock will be featured on a postcard and poster with the message "Don't Smoke, Live Long and Prosper."

Bringing everyone back to Earth will be C. Everett Koop MD, the recently retired Surgeon General, one of the most vocal opponents of smoking, has signed on with the American Cancer Society to sound the alarm against smoking.

"Smoking Is Real Gross," is a rock video style public service announcement that should alert teenagers to smoking's "gross" results—bad breath, zits, and being in the wrong social group. The Clinton-nominated spot has appeared in the Kansas City, Dallas and Los Angeles markets as well as on MTV and should be showing up in other areas during this year's Smokeout.

For the teens' younger brothers and sisters there is a new button featuring a Teddy Bear and the message "Be Beary Healthy...Don't Smoke." There's even something new for adults, a two-fingered ring to inhibit a smoker's ability to hold a cigarette.

The Executive Ashtray Throwaway is the newest of the Smokeout athletic events. Participants hurl ashtrays to symbolize throwing away their habits and can win gold, silver or bronze medals. Giant obstacle courses featuring oversized cigarettes, packs, matches, and other smoking items continue to prove crowd pleasers.

Smokeless happy hours are gaining in popularity and are a Smokeout event that could catch on year round. Military installations are beginning to see more "lockups," in which smokers are locked away and provided entertainment to keep their minds off their habits. Meanwhile, more and more school children across the U.S. are being "deputized" to help "arrest" smoking.

Whether the frontier is in the Wild West or in outer space, it's becoming clearer that smoking is the villain that brings misfortune to people's lives. This year's Great American Smokeout, Number 13, could break that streak of bad luck for the nation's smokers and bring good health to all.

Contact your local American Cancer Society for Smokeout activities in your area, or call 1-800-ACS-2345.

Image improvement program for cancer patients offered

Barbara Weaver, president of the Mississippi Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association Inc. and Sue Lucas, chairman of the Rehabilitation Advisory Committee of the American Cancer Society, Mississippi Division Inc., announce the beginning of a new program designed to help people undergoing treatment for cancer.

This new program, "Look Good...Feel Better," is an opportunity for people undergoing cancer treatment to develop skills to improve their appearance and, as a result, their self image. The "Look Good...Feel Better" program focuses on beauty techniques that can help people cope with the body changes resulting from cancer treatment.

The program can be presented in any number of ways depending on the needs of the participants, the sponsor of a particular program, and the availability of cosmetology professionals for free consultations and make-overs.

"It is a wonderful program to help people look their best—even as they are undergoing cancer treatment," said Lucas.

"Cancer treatment can be very difficult. Some people may temporarily lose their hair, others may gain or lose weight, still others may have troublesome skin problems. We hope by helping people improve the way they look, we can also help them feel better."

For the Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association, this is a chance to give something back to the community," commented Weaver. "We are excited with the idea of using our skills to help people in cancer treatment learn to cope with some of the temporary side effects of the treatment. It's always amazing to me what professional beauty advice and a demonstration make-over can do for someone's whole outlook."

Arboretum to sell native plants

The Crosby Arboretum's second annual autumn native plant sale will be Saturday, Nov. 4 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Pinecote Pavilion in Picayune. The public is invited.

"Included will be those hard-to-find native shrubs, perennials, ferns and wildflowers that you have seen in our natural areas and at Pinecote. All plants are regionally grown—thus well-adapted to your home. Staff, volunteers, gardeners and nurserymen will be on hand to discuss planting and landscaping. Don't miss this change to enhance your garden or purchase a truly meaningful, lasting gift for the holidays," said Katherine Furr, arboretum registrar.

All plants are nursery grown—nothing collected from the wild.

Entrance to this event is free to members. A donation of $2 for adults, $1 for students and $5 for families is requested of those who are not members.

Ocean Springs attorney Kulick announces Senate candidacy

Bill Kulick, a practicing attorney from Ocean Springs, officially qualified Tuesday evening for the vacated Senate seat of Gene Taylor in the 46th District.

Kulick is a graduate of Coast Episcopal High School, Haverford College and Ole Miss Law School. After graduation, Kulick served at the Mississippi Supreme Court as a law clerk and has been in private practice for the last four years.

Kulick is presently vice-president of the Harrison County Young Lawyers Association, coach of the Biloxi High Mock Trial Team, member of national, state and local bar and Trial Lawyers Associations and chairman of the state and local Sierra Clubs.

Extensively involved in matters of state and local concern, he has represented industry and individuals, shrimpers and environmentalists. He has represented city government and has fought against injustice.

Kulick is for tougher drug laws, better education and better jobs, but he is against raising taxes. He would like better programs for senior citizens and believes in family involvement in education.

He is keenly aware that programs such as the Solid Rocket Motor Testing at NASA will not only harm the environment but will damage the health and livelihood of the residents of the 46th District and the state.

As a former law clerk to the Mississippi Supreme Court, Kulick understands the legal testing required of legislation and law enforcement. He knows what it takes to make drug conviction stick.

The son of an Ingalls engineer, Patricia T. Kulick, he has resided in Ocean Springs since 1972, and serves on the vestry of his church.

Hancock defeats Bay High 20-10

BY DENA BISNETTE

Playing in a cloud of smoke from a nearby woods fire, the Hancock North Central Hawks scored against the Bay High Tigers only three times Friday, defeating them 20-10.

The Tigers, hungry for a victory after a winless season, got past the Hawk defense once on the ground and twice by kicking but were unable to push through a last minute Hawk goal line stand to get that crucial second touchdown.

After a couple of turnovers started the game, Tirus Jackson took a 10-yard sprint past the Tiger line to score the Hawks' first touchdown. Jose Santos' PAT kick added a point, giving the Hawks a 7-0 lead with about a minute and a half left in the first quarter.

Bay High waded through the smoke to retaliate with a touchdown set up by Willie Moody's interception of a Hancock pass.

Moody snatched the ball out of the air and set the Tigers up on their own 35.

After pushing their way to a first down, the Tigers handed off to Emmanuel Antoine, who raced 55 yards up the middle, untouched, for Bay High's first six points.

Kevin Edwards added a kick to tie the score at 7-7.

The Hawks broke the tie before halftime, getting inside the Tiger five yardline and scoring when Goff somersaulted over the goal line. Santos added a PAT to post a score of 14-7 for the Hawks.

Bay High recovered a Hancock fumble midway through the third quarter, setting themselves up for a battle of the linesmen as they tried to drive down the field to score. The Tigers ended up with three points instead of six, opting for an Edwards field goal and upping the score to 14-10 with 6:37 left before the buzzer.

The fourth quarter belonged to Jackson, who used a 17-yard end run to score the Hawks' final touchdown.

When a pass for a conversion fell incomplete, the final score of 20-10 stood.

With almost five minutes left on the clock, Bay High renewed its drive, moving rapidly into Hawk territory but running into trouble with the Hancock defense with only about nine yards separating them from the goal line.

On a fourth and goal, the Tigers tried a quarterback sneak but could not push past the Hawk defenders.

Tiger Head Coach Dodd Lee, who has praised his team's improved play during the past four games, added this one to his list of good efforts.

"We're getting enough experience now where we're playing pretty good football. These boys play hard, work hard and have a good attitude."

Hawk Coach Irvin Favre, whose team took its first defeat last week in a pick-up game with Wayne County, called Bay High a good football team that had played hard.

"We were good enough to win, but against a real good team we'd have been beat."

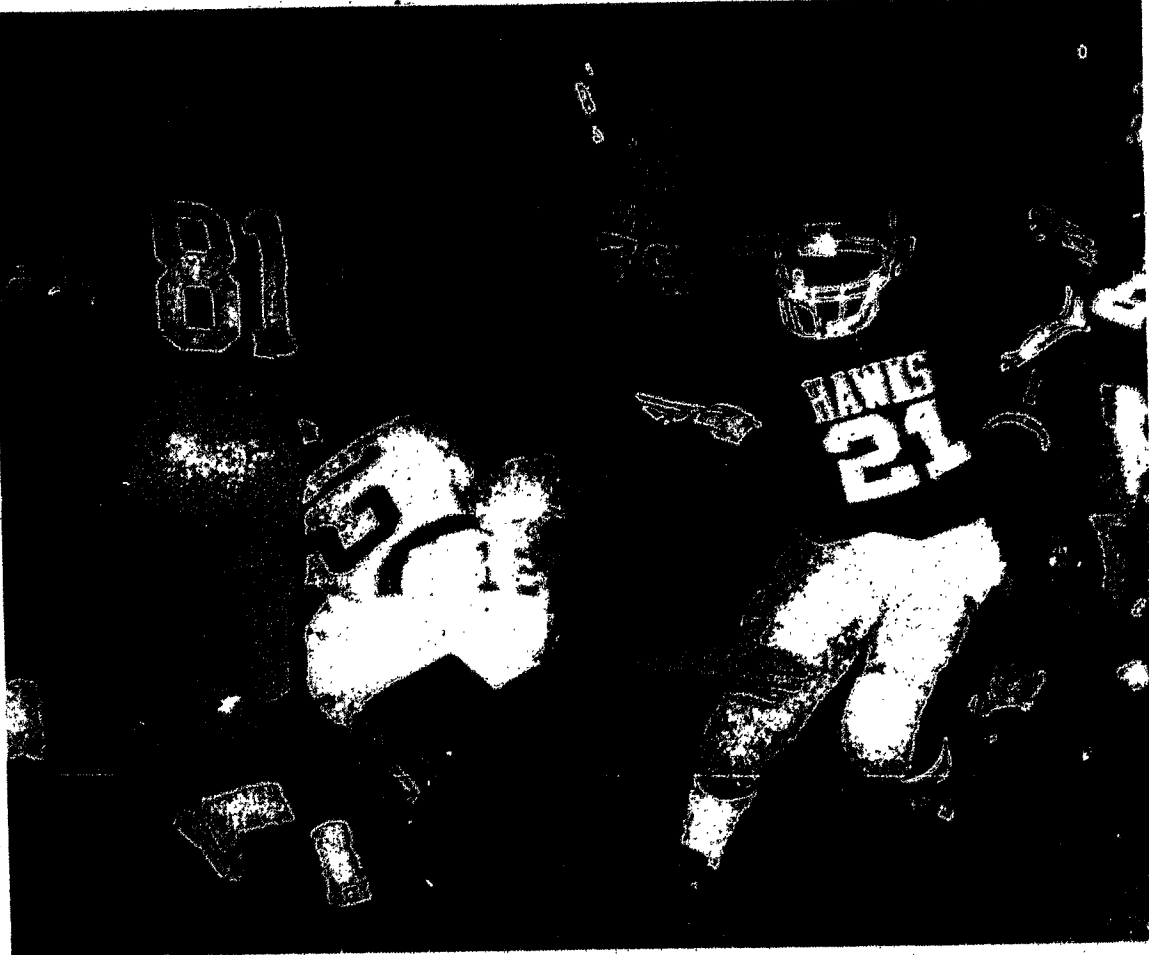

"We knew Bay High would play hard and they kept the game tough against us all the way."

"There were too many turnovers and we failed to capitalize on some of their mistakes, and we earned everything we got, but that goal line stand at the end was a great effort by our defense."

Next week, both teams go on the road, with Bay High facing the Pass Christian Pirates and Hancock North Central meeting the 5-A champions, Harrison Central Red Rebels.

Devils shut down Rocks

Special to the Echo
By Tom Ackerman

The St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaws dropped their second game in a row, their fourth of the season, to the Pearl River Central Blue Devils 17-2 Friday night at Carriere.

The Rocks' only score came on a safety by the Devils in the second period, when a bad snap on a punt caused the Devils to kick the ball out the back of the endzone, giving SSC their two points.

The Rocks were unable to get their passing game off the ground, going primarily to a ground game relying on line-backer Gary Ponthieux and running back Shannon Garrett.

Rock wide receiver Galen Smith snagged a 25-yard pass giving the SSC team good field position, but the Rock-A-Chaws were unable to gain momentum as the next Cedric Smith pass was intercepted by PRC.

Defensively, the Rocks chalked up key plays by Ken Booker, who broke up a possible TD by the Devils, forcing them into a field goal situation. And Sean Sewell captured a PRC pass in the third quarter to spark the Rocks, only to have the drive end four plays later.

The loss puts the Rock-A-Chaws at 5-4 on the season with one game remaining against St. Paul of Covington, La.

The game will be played next Friday at the St. Stanislaus Stadium. Game time 7:30.

Rock Freshmen lose to Warriors

The St. Stanislaus junior high Rock-A-Chaws lost a close game to the visiting d'Iberville Warriors Thursday at the St. Stanislaus field, 10-6.

"We played very hard," said SSC junior high coach Chuck Genin after the game. "Both defenses played well. Our kids appeared a little intimidated by the size of the d'Iberville team, but we quickly gained momentum after forcing two first-half fumbles."

The Rocks score came on a 40-yard punt return by Brandon Benoit. "He ran well all night picking up key yardage on third downs," Genin said.

A near break came for the junior Rocks late in the first half when they recovered a fumble deep in Warrior territory, but they couldn't get the momentum to capitalize on the opportunity. "We just couldn't punch it into the end zone," Genin noted.

The junior high Rock-A-Chaws next contest will be at SSC against the Long Beach Bearcats on Monday, Oct. 30.

"Long Beach is undefeated and that should help us to get fired up for the upset," Genin said, looking ahead to the game. "If we play good, hard defense like we did against d'Iberville, we can win."

Warriors squeak by junior Rocks

The St. Stanislaus ninth grade Rock-A-Chaws closed out their season Friday at home against the d'Iberville junior Warriors losing 49-8.

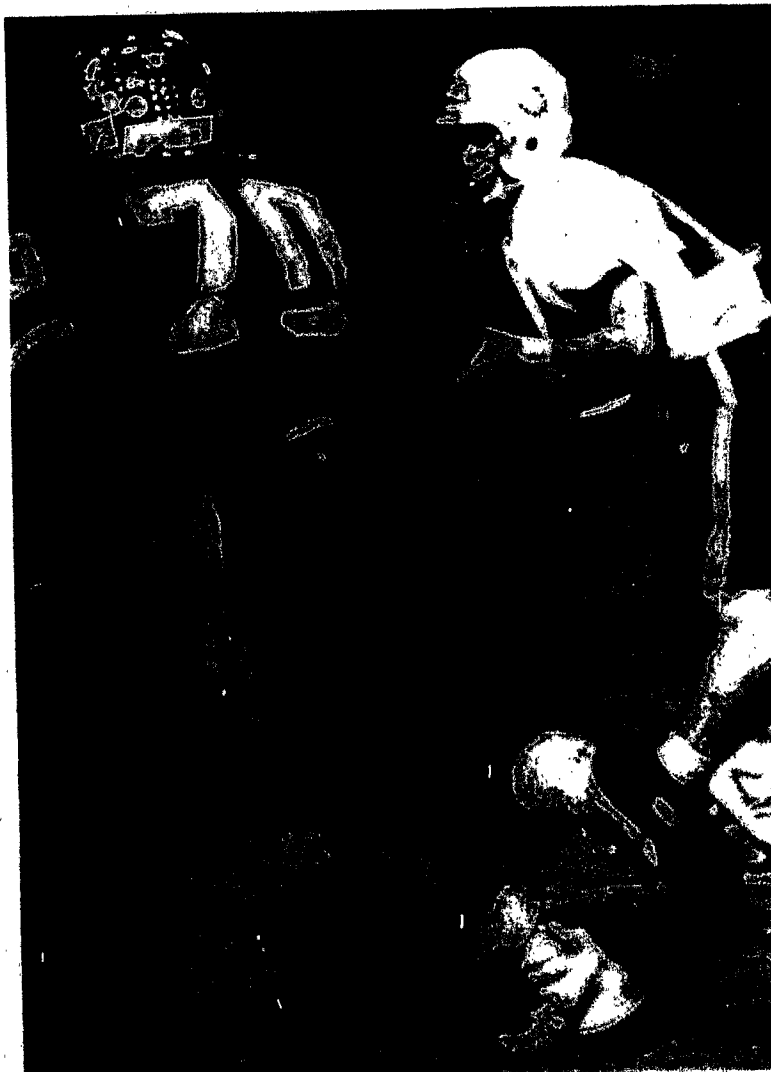

"Our kids never quit," noted Rock ninth grade coach Chuck Genin, commenting on the season. "We played some stiff competition all year, but we kept our spirits high. I would like to thank the players for their efforts," he added.

Key players for SSC were Bryce Gex at quarterback and Brad Wiggins on defense for the Rocks.

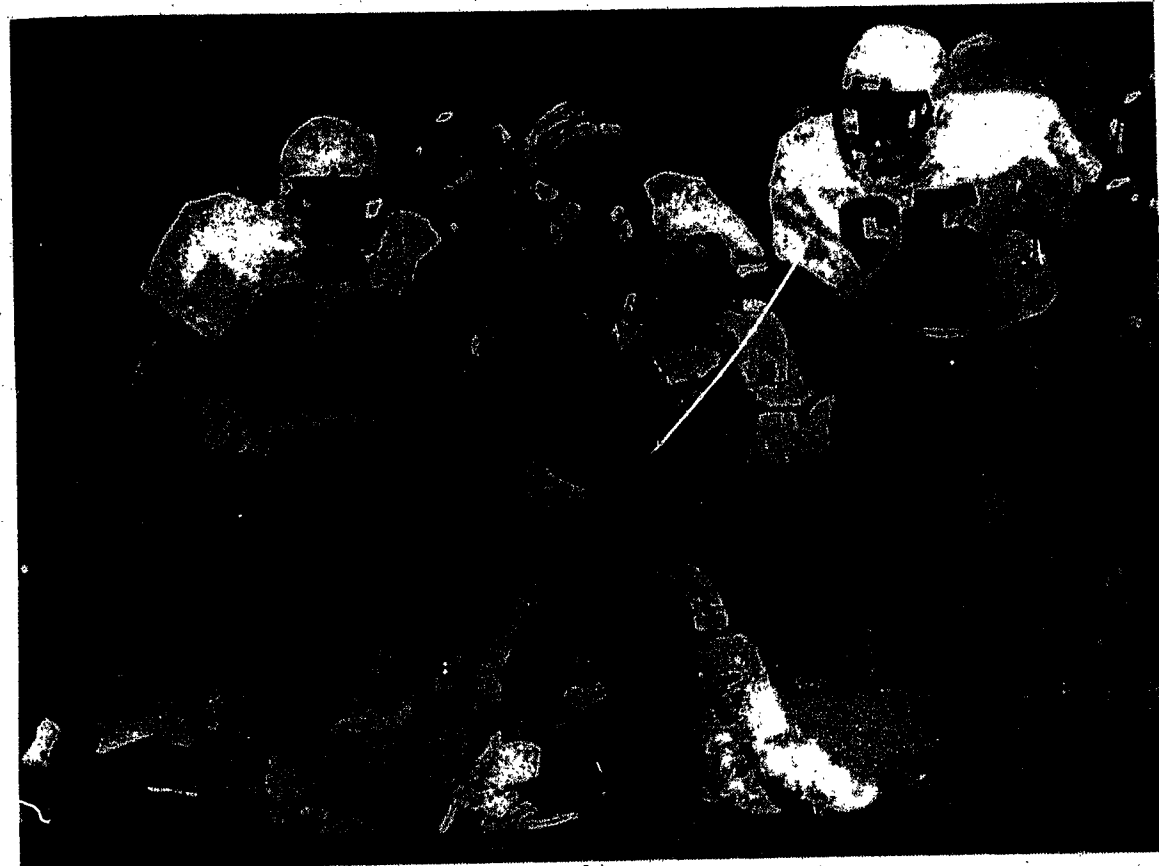

Scoring for the Freshman Rocks, Gex ran 10 yards on a keeper, and Kirk Edrington made good on the two-point run conversion.

d'Iberville got the momentum early in the game with a first quarter score, and then recovered a fumbled kick return to keep the pace.

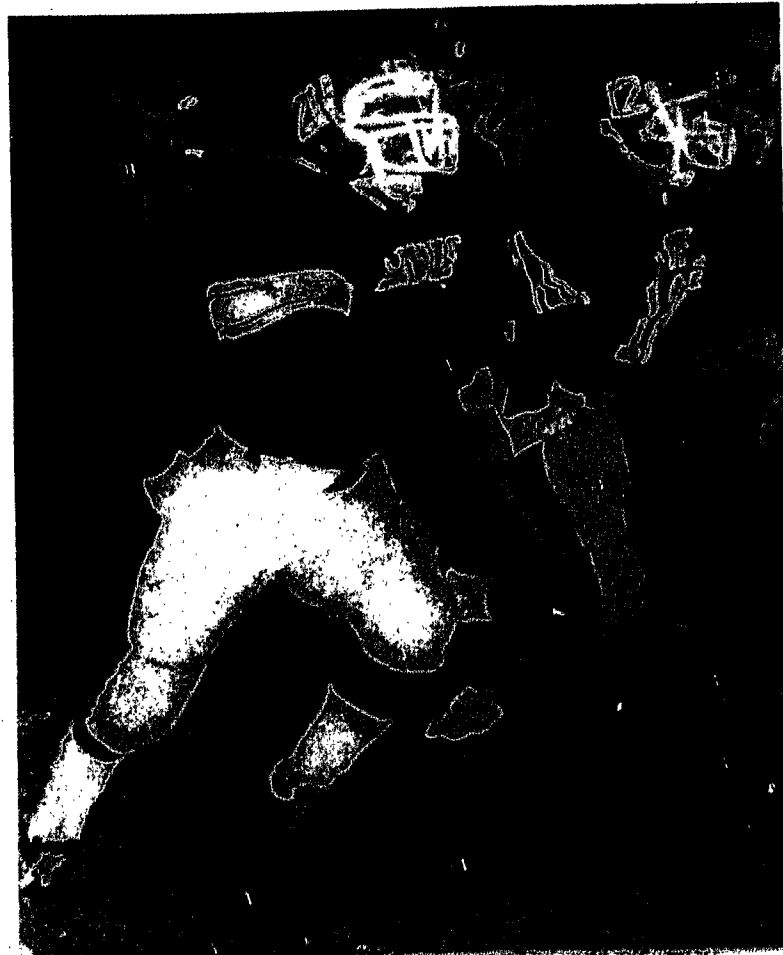

"d'Iberville has a fine team," Genin said. "They had size, speed, and quickness. We hit and played better in the second half, but by then the score was a little out of hand."

Reflections

On Life

By Father Jerome LeDoux, SVD

Let God judge

Powerful, agile and quick, Dexter Manley, the intimidating defensive end of the Washington Redskins, had just gone up one-on-one in fearsome combat with Jim Dumbrowski, an offensive end of the New Orleans Saints.

After the play had been whistled dead, Manley showed his extreme displeasure for some word or gesture on the part of Dumbrowski by spitting on him.

There was hardly a viewer or listener who did not have hostile feelings against Manley. Here, obviously, was a man-child who had little maturity and even less self-control.

From the point of view of the Redskins and their irate fans, Manley's indiscretion very nearly cost them the football game.

This incident was not the first time that Manley had displayed his knee-jerk, hate-filled reaction to an opposing player's words or actions. On at least one other occasion of which I read, when the situation did not call for a violent play, he had thrown an opponent to the ground with beast-like ferocity.

My negative feelings toward Manley were undoubtedly the same feelings as those of hundreds of thousands, if not millions, of other sports enthusiasts who appreciate the thrill of stiff, clean competition. Manley was a pariah.

To my utter amazement, and, I'm sure, to that of everyone else, the Associated Press broke a story on May 19, 1989 with a picture of the hulking Dexter Manley wiping tears from his eyes.

Manley told a Senate panel that he has finally overcome childhood rejection and has gained self-respect since seeking help three years ago to learn to read and write.

Graduated from Houston schools, he had attended Oklahoma State University despite a severe learning disability which effectively rendered him illiterate.

Three years ago, after seeing teammate Joe Theismann's horrendous compound fracture of a thigh bone in a game against the New York Giants, Manley enrolled in night classes at Washington's Lab School. He told Senator Paul Simon:

"I had so much fear and insecurity. I was saying, 'I hope to God this never happens to me, because what would I do?'"

Although 30 years old, Manley was judged to have a second-grade reading level. He was diagnosed as having an auditory problem which makes it difficult for him to remember what he hears.

"Somehow or another, you have to find the will...to come forward and ask for help. That's the most difficult thing for a human being to do," he continued, "I had to humble myself. I had to walk into the Lab School and not pretend. Today I can read and write. I have some self-respect."

He went on to tell them about receiving 19 grades of "F" in second grade and being placed in a special education class for four years.

"It was very difficult, because I felt I was normal, but I was told I was dumb and stupid. I had a lot of rejection in my life."

Without falling prey to the bleeding-heart syndrome, without condoning what was inappropriate in Manley's actions, I had the very heavy feeling that I had overstepped my boundaries and had been judgmental toward my neighbor, Dexter Manley.

We never know what lies beneath the surface of anyone's appearances. Jesus warned us not to judge, in order that we may not be judged. "Walk a mile in my shoes!" we are always exhorted; yet, we forget. Jesus walked in ours for 33 years, yet did not judge us.

ON THE BIBLE

By Minister Charlie Buckley

Don't quit

An army officer candidate was asked in an examination what he would do if he were occupying a valley with 2,000 men at his command and there were 4,000 enemy troops on the hill to his right, and 10,000 enemy troops at each end of the valley. The candidate replied without hesitation, "Sir, I would resign my commission."

Many today are much like this young man, in thinking that the only solution to problems is to just give up and quit. Preachers quit preaching because someone criticizes their sermons. Members quit the church because someone does not speak to them or pay them enough attention.

Marriages are broken up because of a lack of communication and commitment. Parents quit their parental obligations because they want their children to be popular. Young people are quitting school because they fail to see the importance of education.

Many are committing suicide because they see this as the only solution to the stress and pressure. Friendships are dissolved over words spoken or deeds done without consideration and not truly meant.

In the midst of Jesus' personal ministry, he was faced with a large scale desertion from the ranks of his disciples and followers. "Many of his disciples went back and followed him no more," (John 6:66). But Jesus didn't quit!

One of his closest companions, one of the 12 he had personally chosen as leaders of his movement, betrayed him into the hands of the enemy for 20 pieces of silver, (Matthew 26:15; 27:3-10). But Jesus didn't quit!

The leaders of the people he came to save rejected him and plotted his death, (John 1:11; Matthew 26:1-5). But Jesus didn't quit!

One of his three most loved and trusted friends denied even knowing him and cursed and swore to prove it, (Matthew 26:69-75). But Jesus didn't quit!

All of his friends deserted him, and Jesus found himself all alone, (Matthew 26:36-46).

But Jesus didn't quit! He was mocked, ridiculed, beaten, and spit upon, (Matthew 27:27-31). But Jesus didn't quit!

Finally, Jesus was nailed to the cross, crucified, made to suffer the most agonizing and shameful death that the fiendish mind of man was able to conceive, (Matthew 27:33-50). But Jesus didn't quit!

Even while he hung on the cross, he practiced the love and forgiveness and concern for others that he had preached and taught in this life. "This day thou shalt be with me in paradise," (Luke 23:43); "Son, behold thy mother," (John 19:27); "Father, forgive them for they know not what they do," (Luke 23:34). But Jesus didn't quit!

His very death accomplished the mission he came to perform. He conquered sin, death, hell and the grave. He didn't "give up his spirit" until his work was finished and he could cry with a loud voice, "It is finished." (John 17:4; 19:30). Praise God, Jesus didn't quit!

God's word tells us in I Peter 2:21-25, that Jesus is our example and that we are to follow in his steps. God's word encourages us not to quit. (II Timothy 4:6-7). Jesus gives us warning about giving up. "No man having put his hands to the plow and looking back is fit for the kingdom of God." (Luke 9:62).

If what you are doing is right, be sure of that first, (Romans 12:1-2), then go ahead and finish; but don't quit!

Mrs. Taylor begins job as congressman's wife

BY D.C. HARVILL

An old adage goes: "Behind every successful man there is a good woman."

U.S. Representative Gene Taylor is quick to acknowledge that his wife, Margaret, has been beside him every step of the way to the halls of Congress.

Being in the forefront of her husband's campaign and parenting the couple's three young children has been no easy task for Mrs. Taylor, but she feels Gene's victory is the beginning of another challenge for her.

Because the couple has decided she and the children will remain in Bay St. Louis, she said, "I will have to learn to be more self-sufficient."

"If it doesn't work out we can always change our minds," she said.

The beginning of the congressman's career in Washington also marks the beginning of a different way of life for the Taylors.

"I've had to realize that our life together will never be the same again," Margaret said.

"But anything worth doing requires sacrifice," she pointed out.

Living in the same town as the couple's families and friends will make the new arrangements easier to adjust to, she said.

"When Gene stood on the floor of the House to speak for the first time (during his swearing in) it was really moving—it was overwhelming for Gene and me, too," she said.

The swearing in ceremony and the festivities surrounding it were made even more special because so many friends and supporters were able to attend.

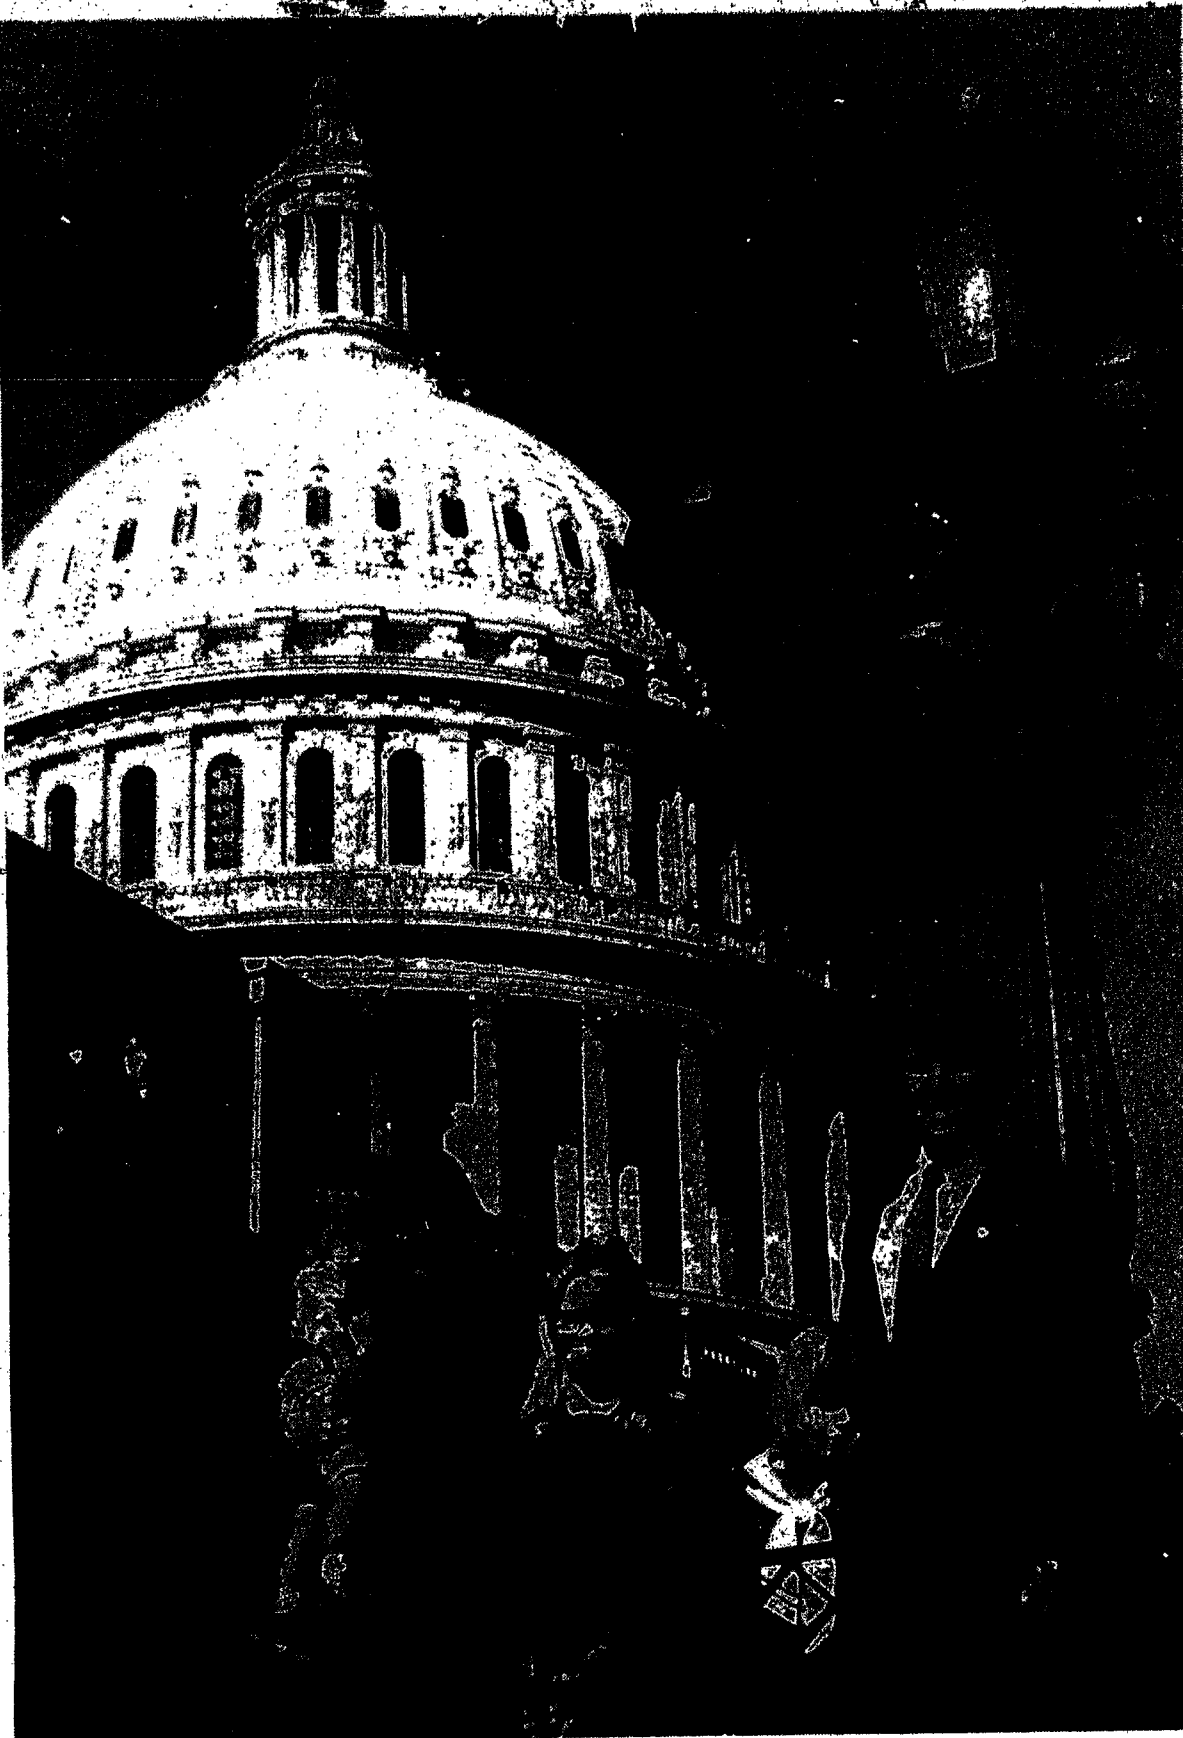

"It was wonderful being with so many people who had helped us along the way," she said.

"Ordinarily, the swearing in ceremony is not such a personal experience because (for a regular election) everyone is sworn in at once and don't get to have so many people watch," she said.

The occasion was the culmination of a dream and a lot of hard work by so many people, she said.

The most special thing about her husband's election, Margaret said, is "There's been such great sense of community. It has brought together people who might not have had anything in common. But they all worked together for a common goal."

The Taylor children, Sarah, 10; Emily, 7; and Gary, 17 months, have learned much during the campaign and swearing in experience, but seem unimpressed with government and politicians, Mrs. Taylor said.

"They just look at them as people who are there to do a job like their dad," she said.

She said she is eager to get the children into a normal routine again.

"This is just the beginning of a tough job for him (Gene) and us too. He's going to need a lot of continued support and prayers," Mrs. Taylor concluded.

THE CHILDREN DANCE—Christy Benvenuta, left, and the Taylor children dance at a party thrown in Gene Taylor's honor the evening before he was officially sworn into the U.S. House of Representatives.

GAVEL-WIELDING Emily Taylor and her sister Sarah clown around at the chairman's platform during a congratulatory banquet in the Veteran's Services Committee Chamber following their father's swearing in ceremony. The banquet, attended by several of Mississippi's legislative delegation to Washington, was the grand finale to the Congressman's swearing in festivities. Before the party ended Taylor was whisked to the House floor to cast his first vote on a piece of national legislation. (Echo staff photos by D.C. Harvill)

THE DAYS MAIL—Congressman Taylor reads through a stack of mail that had accumulated on his desk the day before taking the oath of office. He will attempt to read all his mail personally, he said. (Echo staff photo by D.C. Harvill)

Taylor draws accolades from supporters, peers

BY D.C. HARVILL
It has become almost a cliché. It seems everyone is of the same opinion about Rep. Gene Taylor—throughout his career in politics, as a Bay St. Louis City Councilman, as a state senator, he has earned a reputation as an honest man who stands up for what he believes is right.

And it was that reputation that not only helped him win a U.S. congressional seat but compelled more than 150 people to travel to Washington to be part of his swearing in festivities.

"I see a great future for Gene, because what you see is what you get. What he says in public is what he says in private," said State Representative Isiah Fredericks of Gulfport.

"I've watched him as a senator, he is not a man you can buy. He is his own man. He looks at an issue from all sides then makes a decision for the best of all his constituents," Fredericks said.

Fredericks refers to Taylor as a "new breed of Democrat."

"I wouldn't compare him to any other of Mississippi's U.S. legislators. Gene is more in the middle—you won't catch him on the extreme left or right."

"He is unusual because he has the courage to stand up when the odds are against him. If he is right, he will persevere until he changes people's minds and they start to see things his way. People need to realize he isn't easily moved from a position he knows is right," Fredericks said.

Fredericks said he can only compare Taylor to "the boy next door."

"I don't often go out and support a politician—there's a hazard involved—but I've watched him and know he has what it takes to make us all proud," Fredericks concluded.

"I campaigned for Gene back in 1983 (when he ran for the state senate). I told people if I didn't believe in him I wouldn't call them up and talk to them about him. I told Margaret (Taylor) if he won I would go (to Washington for the swearing in)," Rebecca Montgomery said.

"I supported Gene because I vote for the person, not the party. From the first chapter of Genesis to the last chapter of Revelations in God's word there is not a party mentioned, so therefore I vote for the person. I think Gene can relate well to everyone—the young, adults and elderly—therefore I love him to death," Zelda Fulcher of Long Beach said.

"There won't be any problem with Gene Taylor, he's going to vote his own mind, he's going to be his own man. He'll do better than I've ever done," Rep. G.V. "Sonny" Montgomery said.

"He seems to love being a legislator and that is the key—you have to like it," Montgomery said.

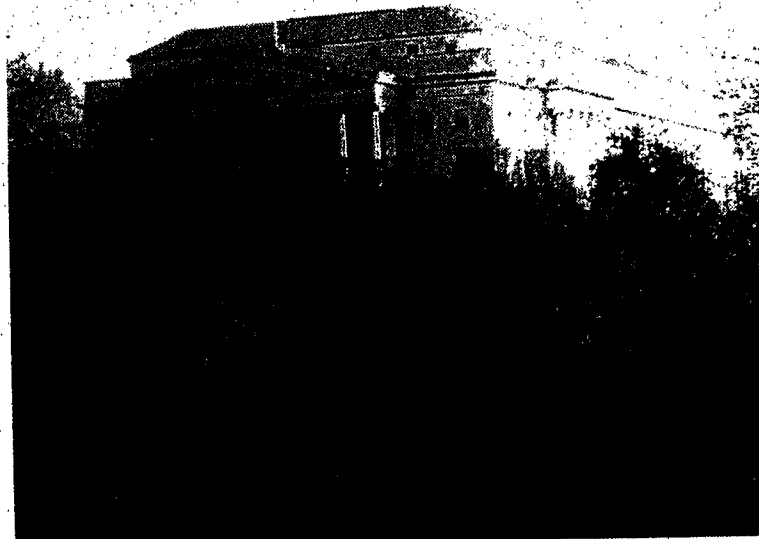

The only possible problem Montgomery could see for Taylor is missing his family.

Bay St. Louis architect Michael Reeves justified his trip to Washington saying, "I decided to get out of the office for a day or two. I missed all of Gene's other parties because I had to work nights."

"This is a very fine occasion for Hancock County. It's not every day one of our own gets to go to congress," Port and Harbor Commissioner Dave McDonald said.

"Personally, I think he is one of the finest young men to go to congress in years. I see a long wonderful career for him," McDonald added.

Cooperative Main Street

Downtown, uptown, across town — from county to county, state to state and all across the nation — cooperatives play an important role in helping their communities thrive.

In urban areas, the suburbs, small towns and rural communities there are 45,000 cooperative organizations that serve 90 million people. These co-ops, owned and operated by their members, provide a wide range of goods and services that benefit their friends, neighbors and communities.

There are co-ops for electric and telephone service, credit unions, farm marketing and farm supply, insurance, health and day care, farm credit, housing, florists and news services. In fact, there could be a co-op for anything and anywhere people need to get things done both economically and efficiently.

Look around your neighborhood and community — no doubt you'll find a co-op or two working hard to provide important services that benefit everyone. Building communities the cooperative way benefits the entire nation!

Arthroscopy: New Surgical Procedures Lead to More Speedy Recovery

Many of us have experienced the pain of swollen, aching joints. Often, the wear and tear of an active lifestyle, the normal aging process, disease or accidental injury can cause joints to develop problems. A surgical procedure called arthroscopy, now available at Hancock Medical Center, is the medical breakthrough which can often get patients on the road to recovery, and do so with minimal pain, said Dr. James Moore, orthopedic surgeon with Hancock Medical Center.

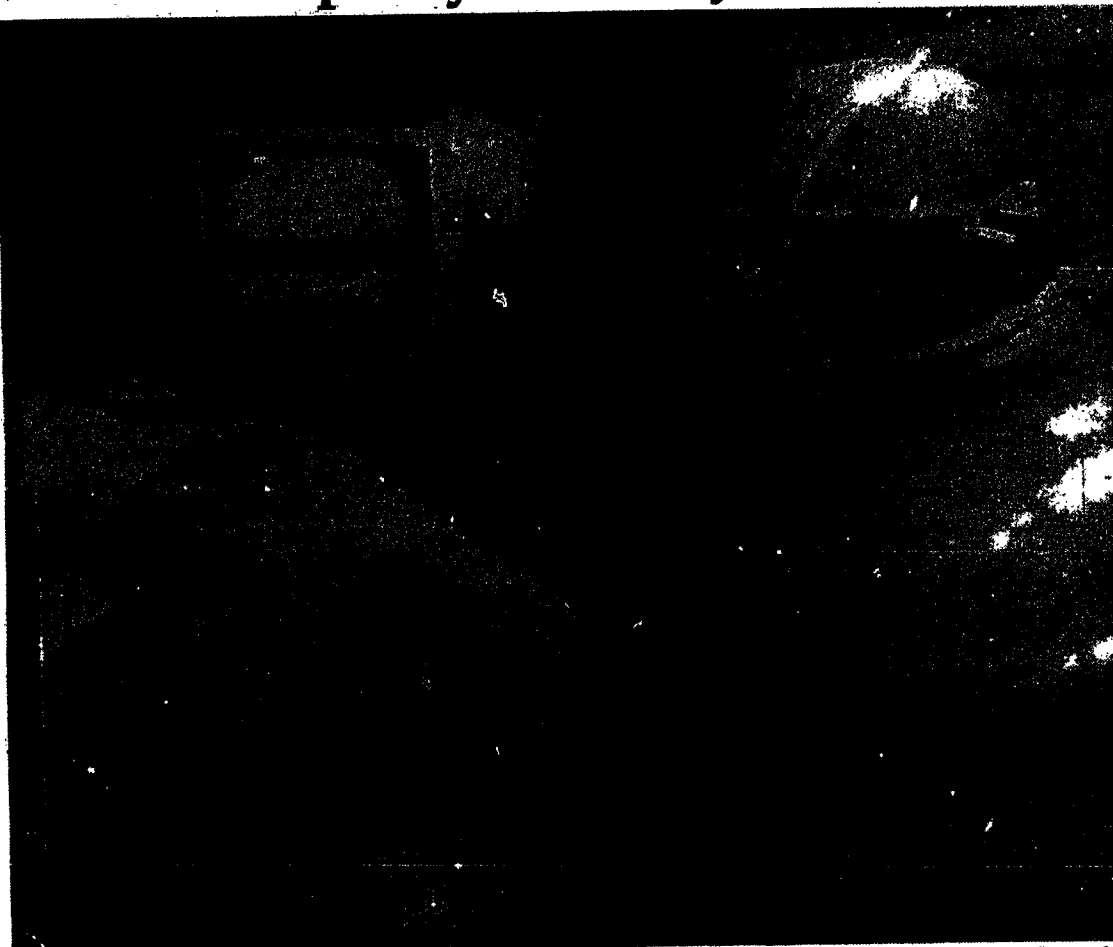

"Arthroscopy is a diagnostic and surgical procedure which allows orthopedic surgeons to diagnose a problem, prescribe appropriate treatment and perform surgical procedures at the same time through small incisions made around the damaged joint," Dr. Moore said.

INSIDE:

- ★ HMC Calendar of Events
- ★ Physician Referral Line

"Because this is a same-day procedure, there is also less trauma to the tissue, and this makes for better healing."

Arthroscopy is performed with an instrument called an arthroscope, which allows doctors to look directly into a troublesome joint, Dr. Moore explained. Because an arthroscope is more accurate than x-rays in revealing soft tissue as well as bone,

Dr. Moore examines a patient's knee for damage. With the arthroscope he can diagnose and treat the problem in the same procedure.

Back-to-School Health and Safety

As summer ends and the weather turns a bit less hot and humid, parents can feel the excitement in the air: summer is over and a new school year has begun. Though this is a time of excitement for children, there are certain steps parents should take to insure their child is ready for the school year to begin.

"I highly recommend a back-to-school check up, especially since state law requires measles and mump shots before returning to the classroom," said Dr. Bertrand Sy, pediatrician. "Children under the age of 7 are especially susceptible to contagious childhood diseases like mumps, measles and chicken pox. The vaccination is very important."

Many times medical problems can also harm a child's performance in school, the physician continued. "That's why it is important that back-to-school exams include vision and hearing tests. If a child cannot see the chalkboard from the back of the room or has difficulty seeing and reading assignments, it will be reflected in his grades. The same is true for auditory functions. Being unable to clearly understand the teacher can greatly affect performance in school."

Other checks commonly made during a back-to-school check up include eyes, ears, mouth and throat, heart, temperature, height and weight analysis, and abdominal examinations.

"If the child has been followed regularly, I look for any changes in these areas, such as enlarged liver or spleen or an infected respiratory tract, before he goes back to school," Dr. Sy said.

During the school year the most common problems the physician sees are respiratory infections (common colds, flu and bronchitis) and gastrointestinal problems such as viruses. Mumps and measles, however, are not as common as they once were since vaccination shots are mandatory.

"I cannot over-stress the importance of teaching children about proper hygiene," the physician continued. "We see head lice as a common problem here, a problem which is caused from sharing combs, hats and other personal items. Children should learn to be aware of these parasites and not share combs with school friends." Along the same line, the doctor emphasized teaching children the importance of hand washing. "Unwashed hands spread germs among children, causing a lot of colds and severe diarrhea."

The time to teach children these good habits of hygiene is at home, in a safe, clean environment. Unfortunately, some parents are unaware of the hidden health hazards right under their noses and in their own home. Doctors say parents who take every precaution for the safety of their child may easily overlook some of the chemical dangers the eye cannot see.

One concern has been the air humidifier and vaporizer, often recommended for children with respiratory infections. While the humidifier does make breathing easier, the heat used to turn water into mist can cause molds and bacteria to build up in the vaporizer, which, in turn, can cause allergic reactions. To prevent this, vaporizers and humidifiers should be washed daily, and the previous day's water should be thrown away and replaced.

Another household hazard may be cigarette smoke. According to Child magazine, studies have irrefutably shown that children and spouses of smokers (known as "passive smokers") run a higher risk of respiratory infections, bronchitis and chronic coughs. In addition, exposure to tobacco smoke may increase the risk of lung cancer by almost 30 percent in the nonsmoking spouse of smokers; and children are at even greater risk.

"Parents who smoke should stop smoking, for the wellness of their children," said Dr. Sy.

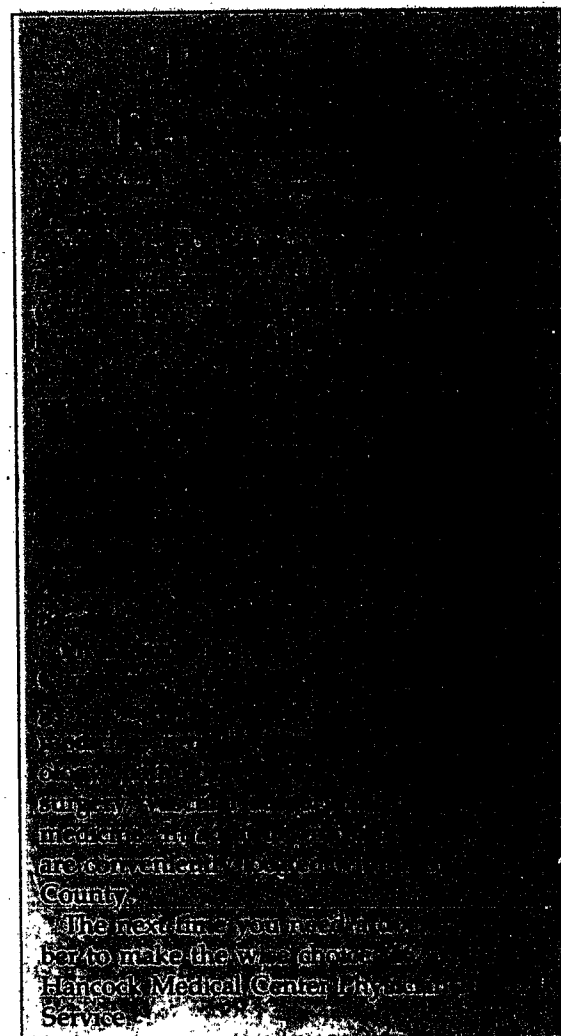

Another most serious threat to children's health is lead poisoning. Exposure to lead can cause damage to the brain, red blood cells, kidneys and peripheral nervous system in children. Common resting places for hazardous bits of lead, which are easily accessible to children, are paint, automobile exhaust, drinking water, art supplies and soil.

"Even small amounts of lead can be harmful," Dr. Sy said. "But parents can help prevent lead poisoning by keeping children out of rooms that are being renovated, and immediately repairing any peeling paint. Also, be careful when selecting art supplies and toys for children. Just because they are sold in the U.S. doesn't mean they are safe."

The local health department can provide information on testing water for lead. Some experts recommend letting tap water run for several minutes in the morning before drinking it to decrease any amount of lead in the water.

For further information about keeping children safe from lead poisoning, contact your pediatrician or write the Center for Disease Control and ask for the free pamphlet called "Preventing Lead Poisoning in Your Children," (1600 Clifton Rd., N.E., Atlanta, GA 30333).

Preparing for back-to-school is fun. But remembering check-ups and safety throughout the year can make school enjoyable for children and parents alike. ■

it was initially used only as an advanced diagnostic tool.

"Eventually, the technique progressed to include surgical procedures as well," he continued. "It is especially useful because it allows us to view injuries in living color and motion through a monitor."

The arthroscope contains magnifying lenses and glass fibers that beam light into the joint and relay a magnified image to an eyepiece or TV monitor.

"At first arthroscopy was used primarily for knee problems, but now it can be used to successfully treat problems with the shoulder, ankle, elbow, wrist and hip," the physician specialist said. The procedure works something like this:

The arthroscope has a long shaft which contains coated glass fibers and a series of magnifying lenses. The shaft of the arthroscope is inserted into the joint through tiny incisions called portals which are made around the joint. The lenses in the shaft beam an intense, cool light into the joint and relay the magnified image it "sees" to the viewer. Looking through the eyepiece or at a TV monitor, a doctor has a clear view and access to most areas of the joint.

"Before the arthroscope, we were unable to directly identify many knee problems," Dr. Moore said. "The only way to diagnose and treat a problem knee was with open surgery, which required large incisions, a hospital stay and often a long recovery period. Arthroscopy allows for direct and thorough examination of the knee without major surgery."

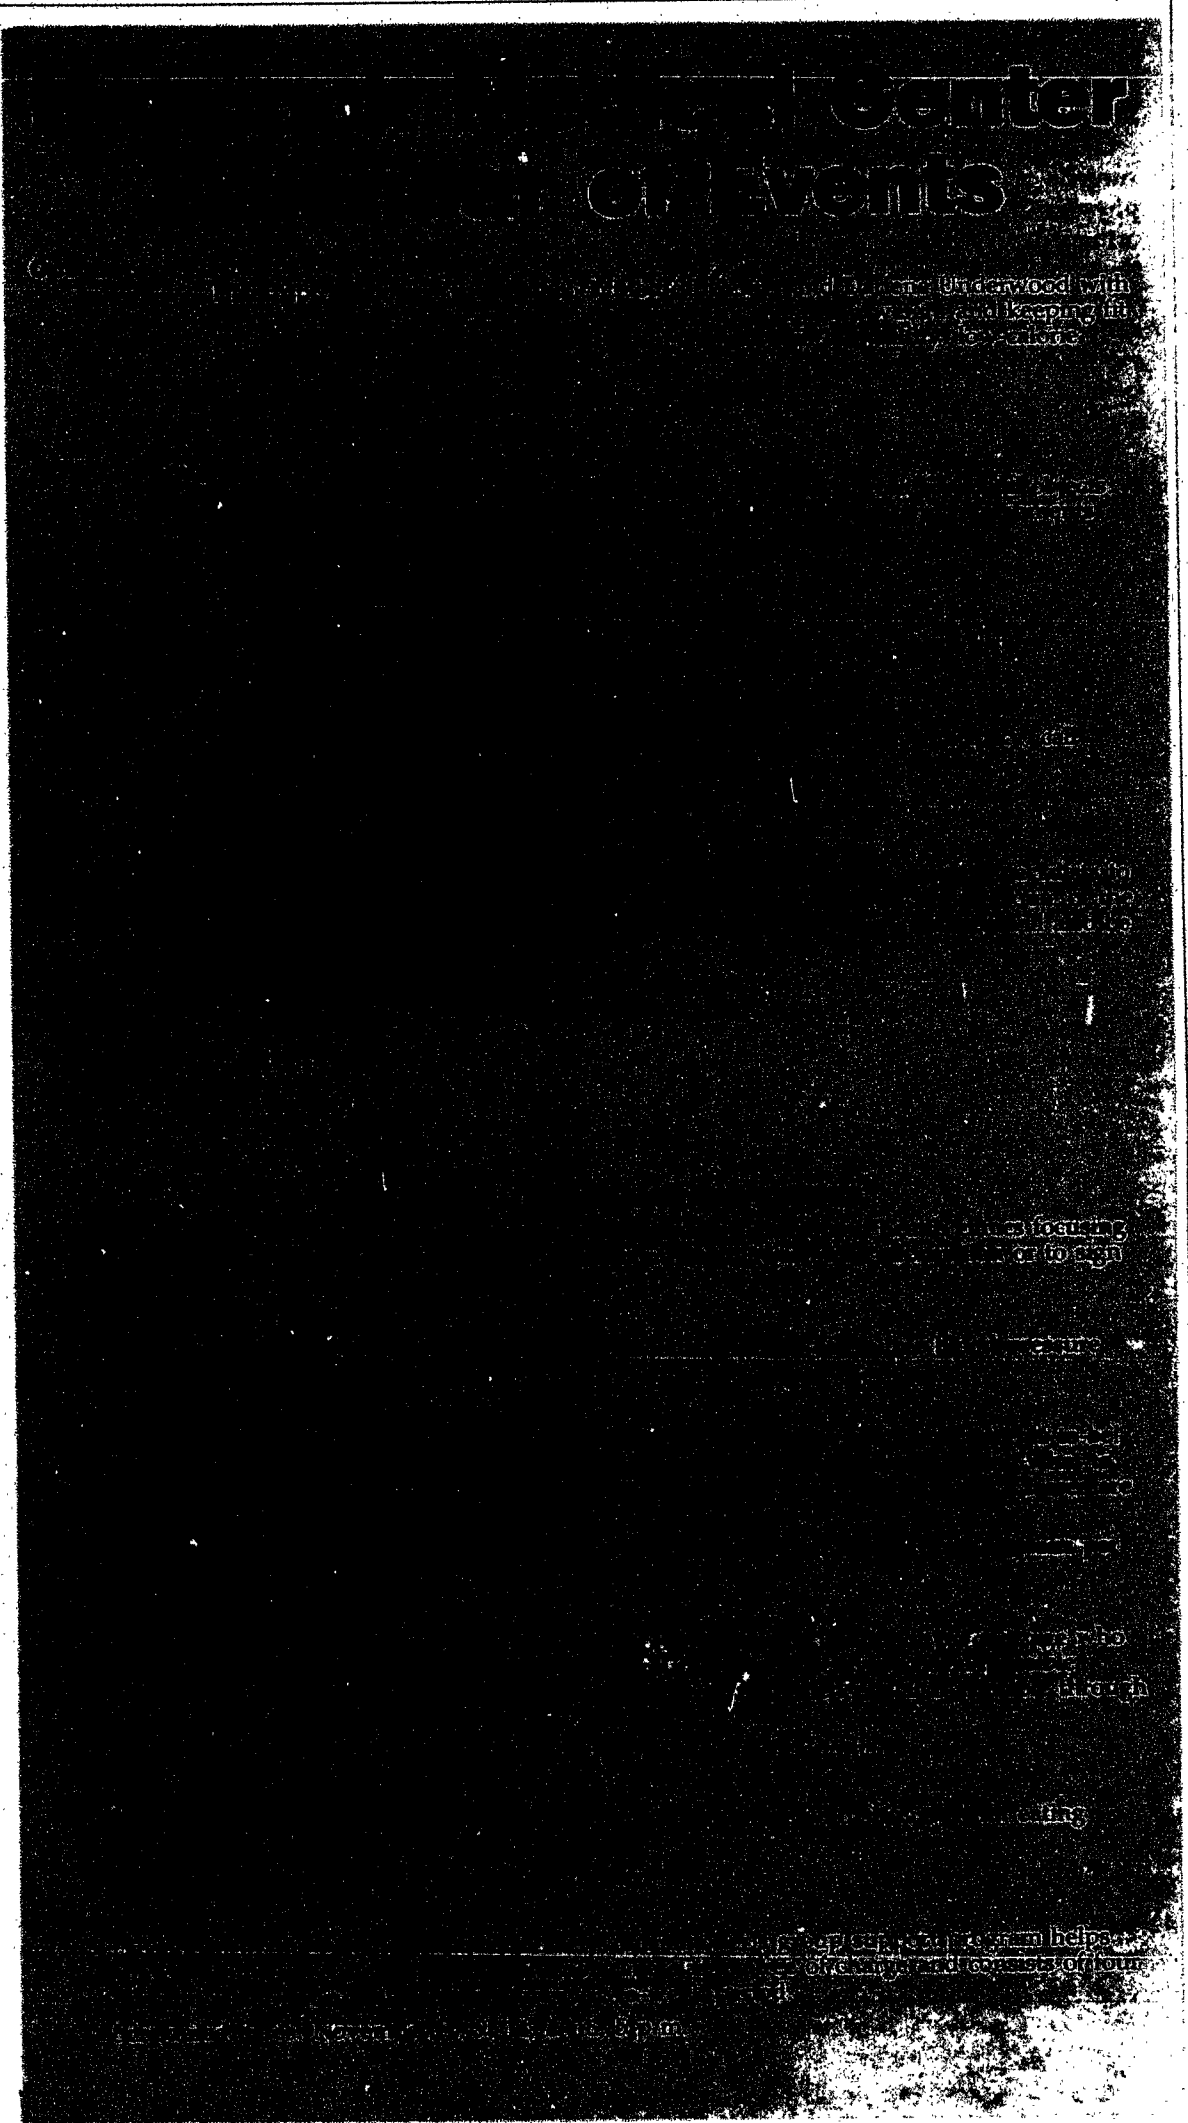

The development of this procedure is especially good news for athletes who in the past may have been out of the game for an entire season due to injury. Geoff Kergosien, physical therapist with Hancock Medical Center, said with arthroscopy he sees athletes return to the game much sooner than with conventional surgery methods.

"It's not uncommon for arthroscopy patients to be walking with crutches the day after surgery," the physical therapist said. "The reason healing takes place so much more quickly is that it is less evasive, producing much less trauma to the healthy tissue above the joint."

Most problems can be diagnosed accurately and, in many cases, surgically treated at the same time, Dr. Moore said. The whole procedure can usually be performed as same-day surgery.

"I see a lot of people with knee problems caused from sport- and work-related injuries because the knees are especially vulnerable to soft-tissue and other injury," Dr. Moore continued. "Women are particularly susceptible to kneecap problems, while older adults may have trouble from aging joints. Many knee problems arise from damage to the soft tissues, the cartilage and ligaments inside the joint."

Once a patient decides to see an orthopedic surgeon about knee discomfort or injury, the physician will take a general medical and orthopedic history and ask the patient about the specifics of the injury. After determining whether a pain came on gradually or from a sudden injury, the physician manually examines the knee, looking for tenderness, swelling, a decreased range of motion or instability.

Next, routine x-rays are taken to diagnose bone conditions, while special stress x-rays may be needed to determine joint stability.

"Soft tissues cannot be seen with a regular x-ray, but abnormal bone anatomy and arthritis can often be identified," Dr. Moore said. "An arthrogram is needed to detect soft-tissue problems."

An arthrogram is a special x-ray designed to allow doctors to study soft tissue. Dye injected into the joint outlines menisci, joint surfaces and cruciate ligaments.

Arthroscopy may be performed to diagnose and treat a number of different problems. Whether diagnostic or surgical, similar preparation is required. The patient must not eat or drink anything, even water, after midnight. In the operating room, either local or general anesthesia is administered. Once the patient is anesthetized, the surgeon makes a few tiny incisions around the knee. A sterile saline solution is then injected through one of these portals to distend the joint, while the surgeon inserts the arthroscope into the other portals to examine the joint completely. With arthroscopy a torn meniscus or ligament, rough bone surface, and loose fragments can be readily seen, evaluated and, in many cases, repaired at the same time.

Arthroscopy has also been helpful in aiding those who suffer from arthritis. "As we age, the articular cartilage covering bony surfaces wears down," the physician specialist explained. "This cartilage can become worn and roughened, interfering with smooth joint movement. There could also possibly be cartilage fragments that have broken off and are floating in the joint as 'loose bodies.' Roughened surfaces are smoothed down with power instruments and debris suctioned out. Also we remove thickened joint lining and loose bodies."

Arthroscopy is a complex word for a highly technical procedure. But for those who suffer from daily joint discomfort, the possibilities are almost limitless and the results are very simple: joints feel better without the time or pain of major surgery. ■

NOVEMBER

ARMED ROBBERY

A Bay St. Bonis man has been arrested and charged with armed robbery by the Prince George's County Sheriff's Department. William R. Hampton, 26, Rte. 6, Box 788K, was arrested Monday and charged with two counts of armed robbery, according to Chief Deputy Delbert Sear.

Monday is deadline for absentee ballots

BY DENA BISNETTE
The deadline for absentee ballots for the Nov. 7 election is 5 p.m. Monday.

As of Wednesday afternoon, 31 absentee ballots have been returned, according to a member of the staff in the Hancock County Circuit Clerk's office. That number includes both the ballots cast in the office and those returned by mail.

About 140 absentee ballots were mailed out a week ago, just a few days after the qualifying deadline for the District 46 State Senate race.

The circuit clerk's office was open Saturday, but no absentee votes were reported. In addition, the office will be open this Saturday from 8 a.m. until noon to accept absentee ballots.

In comparison, about 8,500 out of the 21,766 registered voters participated in the Oct. 17 election; about 150 of those voted absentee. About 80 percent of the absentee ballots which were mailed for that special election run-off, which included only the Fifth District congressional race, were returned.

Under current procedures for special elections, absentee voting can begin up to 30 days prior to the election, according to Hancock County Election Commission Secretary Betsy Nolan.

However, no voting can begin until the qualifying period ends and the names are on the printed ballots.

The election for the state senate seat vacated by Gene Taylor on Oct. 18 after his election to congress was a late addition to the Nov. 7 ballot.

Already scheduled were elections to replace an East District constable who had resigned for health reasons; to replace an election commissioner who had died; and to replace former District Attorney Glenn Cannon.

Section 23-15-851 of the Mississippi Code contains a provision requiring only 20 days' notice of special elections to fill legislative vacancies.

Under section 23-15-359, the qualifying petitions for a special legislative election, which require signature by 50 qualified electors, have a submission deadline of only 10 working days prior to the election.

Re-addressing project continuing in county

BY DENA BISNETTE
A little leftover work related to the Enhanced 911 project will be completed soon.

Hancock County Tax Collector and Assessor Edward Murtagh reported to the Hancock County Board of Supervisors on Tuesday that field personnel should finish re-addressing in Pearllington later this week.

Other areas left to be completed include parts of Ansley, BaySide Park and some renumbered areas on Highway 90.

Murtagh's office was among the first in the county to become involved in the Enhanced 911 project, which was officially dedicated for use at the beginning of October.

The tax office has coordinated efforts with the board of supervisors to name or number all roads in the county and to number all structures, leaving room for new structures to be added to the numbering system.

Murtagh's field personnel are verifying the addresses and notifying the residents of new addresses of each section as parts of the project are completed.

The Enhanced 911 program differs from the old 911 program in that it covers the entire county and provides both a com-his employees have contributed more than $1.5 million to area-wide charities.

The fundraising effort began last month and is scheduled to end in mid-November. Stennis Director Roy Estess, who strongly supports the work of United Way, is chairman of this year's annual charity drive at the space center.

Through United Way, we are able to support programs such as those which teach illiterate people how to read and disabled people how to walk, and to fund medical research to help find cures for the devastating diseases of cancer and AIDS.

He added that he is especially proud of the fact that on our own we have a precedent in giving money to our national bondsmen. The contributions to United Way are channelled through literally thousands of programs, including the national health and care programs, to help people in need. The money is then sent to the local United Way committee.
